Foreword

In keeping with an honored tradition of Chelmsford High School, the Class of 1935 submits another link in the chain of volumes that bind us so pleasantly and yet so firmly with our scholastic days.

It is not today nor yet a year from today that this Book will present its full value, but rather, as the years glide swiftly behind us it will increase in value until it becomes priceless as a record of the happiest days of our life.

Treasure this book, reader, and it will repay you a thousandfold in the future.

Neither piety, virtue, nor liberty can long flourish in a community where the education of youth is neglected.—Cooper.

Dedication

TO

DAISY B. MACBRAYNE

Daisy B. MacBrayne

who combined experience with knowledge to instill within us a love for our literature and respect for its teacher.

The Hope of America

During the early days of the World War, when the nations of Europe were being drained of their young manhood, Herman Hagadorn issued a stirring appeal to the youth of America under the title, "You Are the Hope of the World". It was an appeal to carry on in school, to the end that trained and enlightened leadership might not utterly fail civilization through the carnage of battle. In these trying years of the business depression, when so great changes are being made in the economic and social order, at a time when no man is sufficiently clear-sighted to see the shore toward which our ship of state is sailing, it may with equal truth be said that the young men and women in our schools and colleges are the hope of America—and perhaps of the world.

The great principles of democracy are on trial. In much of Europe they have been utterly cast aside. Can we in America hold to the ideals of our fathers, calmly weigh issues and men, and make our decisions solely by ballot? Can we maintain free speech, a free press, the right of assembly? The great majority of the people of Europe are now denied these rights. Can our voters withstand the gilded promises of demagogues on one side, and the propaganda of selfish interests on the other, and build for America a new social order in which there shall be a greater measure of social justice, of economic security?

The answers to these questions are in the future. We pray that they may be given by the voice of all America, by men and women of every social rank, of all conditions of wealth or poverty, without regard to race or religion. And if so given, we may be assured that our beloved American Democracy will rise from this period of turmoil and stress to a higher realization of our national ideals, that more truly than ever before all men shall be equal, and shall to a fuller extent attain life, liberty, and happiness.

To reach this desired end, a trained, disciplined, and clear thinking citizenry is essential. In this sense, you, young men and young women in Chelmsford High School, with your mates in every school and college of the land, are the Hope of America.

Superintendent of Schools

Ten Guide-Posts to Success

Please measure yourselves by the following adjectives. If you can honestly score ten on each, thereby making a grade of 100, I predict success for you. If you do not make 100, try to correct your living so that you, also, will be successful.

Cheerful, Humble, Efficient, Loyal, Magnanimous, Sound, Faithful, Original, Reverent, Dependable.

Cheerful: Be full of cheer so that others will enjoy your company. Many and otherwise brilliant person has been a failure because of a gloomy disposition. Laugh in the face of failure, profit by your mistakes, and succeed.

Humble: Praise does not come to those who ask for it. Be ever ready to praise the good in others and trust your friends to commend the same in you. "If you never do anything that you do not receive pay for, you will never be paid for what you do not do."

Efficient: The world does not care for a lazy person. Be a help to society by always working with vigor to improve the social conditions so that the world will be a better place to live in and to make a living in.

Loyal: Obey the laws of your government. Work to revise unjust or unwise laws, but as long as they are on the statute books a loyal person will obey them. Be true to all people, especially to those to whom you have pledged allegiance.

Magnanimous: Have a lofty and courageous spirit. Strive for the better and noble things of this life. Do not stoop to what is low or mean. Be generous.

Sound: A sound body is a great asset to success. You have the power and it is your duty so to live that you will have the physical strength to do the work that has been planned for you.

Faithful: Place your faith in God and your fellowmen. Be firm in your adherence to your obligations. Be slow to make promises that you may not be able to fulfill. "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

Original: Search for new and better methods of creating the necessities and also the finer things of life. Be independent in your thinking. Do things because you think they are right, not because others have done them.

Reverent: Respect those who are older and wiser than you. Be reverent to those who by their words and actions are trying to have you live better and nobler lives. "Honor thy father and thy mother that their days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Dependable: Make yourself worthy of being depended upon by all those who put their trust in you. So conduct yourselves that when you are given a task to do, it is known that you will do your best to complete it.

Sincerely yours,

Keep Your Ideals

June, 1935 will find another horde of eager ambitious youths turned out upon the world as fitted to take their place in life. Normally, these would be absorbed into the marts of the country but, reluctantly, we must admit that but a small percentage will receive steady employment.

This is a problem that can only solve itself through the tedious process of time. History is spotted with like instances but not on such a large scale. By long experience we know that somehow, sometime, it must end.

In the meantime, what can be done? First of all, we must realize that the greatest asset of youth is its confidence and idealism. There is nothing on earth so sublime as the supreme faith with which the graduate looks into the future, secure in the belief that he or she will be one of the favored minority. Each sees himself as successful in an incredibly short time, in spite of all evidences to the contrary.

Students of '35, this is your greatest asset, greater by far than the abilities you have amassed, for it alone will keep you fighting for that niche in life which is yours by right. It alone will tide you over the dull days of idleness. Keep and guard it as you would your honor or your life for, without it, you are a failure and a loss to yourself and the world.

How can you maintain this spirit of idealism and confidence? The answer is simply,—keep going forward. Read, study, observe and constantly perfect yourself in preparation for the break that comes to everyone sooner or later. Maintain your cheerfulness, your neatness, and your ambition by constantly feeding their fires with the fuel of increased knowledge.

Every library, every good magazine is a cheap, efficient means of advancement. Never give up progressing for a moment or all is lost. Our final advice to you, therefore, contains much in a few words. It is your key to success and happiness.

“Keep your ideals.”

Board of Editors

We, as students, aspire to climb the ladder of success, fully realizing by graduation that we cannot turn backward and descend the steps of passed years, but chance remains for us to gaze at school-day memories as represented by this Book. As the members of the Class of '35 advance to the successes of their chosen field, the Staff hopes that they may always recall with affection the joys, trials, and friendships of their high school days.

The Pathway of Progress

If it's fame and success that you seek,
And a name well known to all,
You'll have to climb to the mountain's peak
After many a trial and fall.

The pathway of progress is the way
That leads to the tower of success,
But it doesn't take an hour or a day;
But days of labor and distress.

The pathway of progress is not gay,
For thunder and lightning will prevail,
There will be many a dismal day,
Dark with snow and hail.

The pathway of progress is rough and steep,
Flowers not everywhere;
Rushing rivers running deep;
A bright spot only here and there.

Out there the sky won't always be blue,
The sun won't always shine,
But the best and only thing to do,
Is to say that all's just fine.

Say there's always a way out of every glen,
And it's not as bad as you thought,
You may miss nine out of ten,
But find at last your battle fought.

Here is something to bear in mind;
There is a reward at the end,
For those who will try to find
Some one little place to mend.

At last this fog and mist will clear,
All troubles now are less;
And there in shining atmosphere,
The glimmering tower of success!

In Memoriam

ESTHER ELEANOR STAVELEY

Died May 19, 1932

The Class of '35 will ever hold dear in their hearts and minds the memory of Esther. Our thoughts are always lightened when we recall her cheerful manner, willing spirit, and merry laughter. Deeply do we cherish the remembrance of our classmate.

Class Ode

The gates of time are closing
On the happiest of our days.
The school where we have labored
Will e'er deserve our praise.
The road that we must travel
Is long and full of strife
But high ideals instilled here
Are the guide posts of our life.

"By Labor and by Honor,"
Our motto and our guide,
Shall be our constant precept
And ever be our pride.
With silver for our high hopes
And blue for lasting truth
The colors streaming o'er us
Are emblems of our youth.

Our days at Chelmsford High School
Are o'er. We gather here
To say farewell to classmates,
To friends who are so dear.
And now the future beckons
May all our dreams come true
To those we leave behind us
To bid a fond adieu.

Alfred H. Coburn

Youth is the period of building up in habits, and hopes and faiths.— Not an hour but is trembling with destinies; not a moment once passed of which the appointed work can ever be done again, nor the neglected blow struck on cold iron.

Athletics

Athletics at Chelmsford high school have become a very prominent part of pupil-activity. We have endeavored to place our interscholastic sports on an equal basis with other schools of our enrollment. In no boastful manner, we feel that we are recognized favorably by all schools of our class and command a great deal of respect from some high schools which far outnumber Chelmsford's. Above this, our fundamental aim—good citizenship—which we have spoken of before, and which has characterized Chelmsford high school athletes of the past, remains upper-most on the field and in the gymnasium as well as in the classroom.

Chelmsford possesses an ideally located athletic field to the rear of the school building. This is an advantage over many schools since it requires no transportation to the field from the school for practice sessions. Hence, no time is lost between the close of school and practice time. The field is in good condition. Our greatest need at present, for the athletic department, is a new basketball court with shower and locker conveniences. This need will soon become a reality since the building committee is already formulating plans for construction of an addition to our present structure which will undoubtedly call for a gymnasium. With an indoor athletic plant capable of seating all who wish to see our basketball games, we should have little trouble making basketball pay for itself, a sport which heretofore has not been self-supporting.

May our growth and expansion of athletics here at Chelmsford high school continue on the same high level as in the past.

Football

"Signals!"—The backs shift—the ball is snapped, and twenty-two men strain every muscle for that mightiest of sports—football!

The 1934 season opened with the fandom of Chelmsford in a doleful mood. All kinds of rumors were on wing to the effect that a light and inexperienced team would represent the school. However, Coach George R. Knightly supplanted those rumors with a real fast and fighting eleven.

Rockport and Hamilton, by virtue of their advantage in weight, were forced to the utmost to gain victories by one-touchdown margins. The strong and highly-touted Milford High was surprisingly held to a 7 to 7 tie. Acton was the first victim, falling before the pass combination of Holt to O'Brien. Amid a blaze of color, our "Booster Day" game was won by Johnson High, 13 to 6. After two consecutive losses, the team really found itself, and had no trouble in vanquishing Somerset, 14 to 0. Thus the season closed in a highly satisfactory manner.

The eleven was greatly strengthened by the superb performances of Capt. Freddy Millman, the iron-man "Jack" Holt, and that tower of defense, "Charlie" Sigerson.

Boys' Basketball

The 1934-1935 basketball team was by far the most brilliant to wear the colors of C. H. S. in many moons. A team of speed, coordination, and fire, has hung up a fine record, and taken its place in what might be termed as the local "Hall of Fame."

Led by Captain "Jack" Holt, the team could hardly have failed. He distinguished himself as the "spark-plug" of the court, winning or losing. The blond and agile forward, Stan Wacome, was high scorer and the most colorful player of many seasons. Fred Millman, who really "found" himself in the last five games, teamed with Stan, who played at the other forward post, both being ably relieved by Claude Harvey. Ben Benoit, who could be counted upon to get the all-important tap, was at the pivot position. Captain Marshall Holt, and the steady Julian Zabierek, who truly manifest the phrase "They shall not pass," guarded our basket.

Next year, the team, under the guidance of Captain-elect Wacome, should have even a better record than that of this year, since Holt is the only member to be lost through graduation.

Girls' Basketball

The girls' basketball team broke exactly even with their opponents this season. Out of eleven games played, they won five, lost five, and tied one. Led by Captain Esther Stephens, the girls played well under the fire of the Lowell Suburban League. Muriel Harvey led the team in scoring, followed by Thelma Corr and Frances Kelley, who displayed some fine netting. Passing proved the specialty of the center court, held down by Esther Kidder and Captain Esther Stephens. Against very stiff opposition, Eileen Wrigley and Barbara Swanson defended and held our opponents to small leading margins. Defense, passing, determination, team work and scores were the result of long hours of practicing, and the team was well worth all the praise they received.

This year a competitive exam was given for managerial duties. The results were: Harriet Sturtevant, Manager; and Yvonne Bachelder, Ass't Manager. The efficiency of the managers proved the worth of this method.

Near the end of the season, matrimony claimed Miss Mildred Wells, who had coached the team successfully since the 1931-32 season. The entire team expresses their wholehearted thanks and sincere hopes for her future happiness.

Baseball

The 1935 baseball team of Chelmsford High was really a championship club. Although the league to which we belong did not function this season owing to financial reasons of one of the member-teams, our boys defeated every team in that league. This proves that the cup, which is ordinarily awarded the league winner, would be added to our trophy cabinet had not the league voted to suspend for one year.

Harold Petterson was the choice of his team mates when votes for captain were counted. "Pete" made a fine leader. He played short stop and hit the ball well. We lose our short stop through graduation.

"Jack" Holt, who caught the slants of our pitching staff comes in for no little share of credit. One duty of a good receiver is keeping a team on its toes. "Jack" does this well beside talking it up aplenty too. Our catcher who was one of the team's leading stickers, receives his sheepskin with the class of '35.

Jim Robinson and Eric Peterson are two classy fielders. They both leave us this June via the graduation route.

Our pitching force will be back with us another year since both boys who were the heavy burden bearers of the mound—Stan Wacome and Don Batchelder—are not members of the graduating class this year.

Our Athletic Association is the largest club in high school and one of which we all feel justly proud. Size alone does not warrant our feeling of enthusiasm, but rather the high principles of sportsmanship for which this organization stands and upholds.

We, as members, have been fortunate in the leadership which we have been privileged to enjoy. Mr. Burns, our principal, has ever been loyal to our endeavors. Mr. Budnick, faculty manager of athletics, has guided us to prosperity with his ingenuity and executive ability. Mr. Knightly, coach of our three major sports, has untiringly taught us the principles of the game and exemplified for us the value of right living. Mrs. Hilyard, coach of girls' basketball, trained our squad faithfully and well. In fact, teachers, students, and friends by their support and cooperation have aided us in the success of our athletic achievements.

Our student body has responded generously to the suggestions and adoptions of their chosen leaders. Membership on our teams have been striven for as places of honor. Attendance of pupils and friends at our contests has increased in all sports, and beyond our capacity to accommodate them in basketball. Scores have been well over-balanced with wins from opponents whom we are always pleased to meet. The equipment of our teams has been superior to that of our opponents. All contests under our association have been well managed, started promptly, conducted efficiently, and supervised by approved officials.

The association is pleased to congratulate the following members who earned awards in the various sports of the 1934-1935 season:

The Journey Onward

As slow our ship her foamy track
Against the wind was cleaving,
Her trembling pennant still look'd back
To that dear isle 'twas leaving.
So loth we part from all we love,
From all the links that bind us ;
So turn our hearts, as on we rove,
To those we've left behind us !

When, round the bowl, of vanish'd years
We talk with joyous seeming—
With smiles that might as well be tears,
So faint, so sad their beaming ;
While memory brings us back again
Each early tie that twined us,
Oh, sweet's the cup that circles then
To those we've left behind us !

And when, in other climes, we meet
Some isle or vale enchanting,
Where all looks flowery, wild, and sweet,
And naught but love is wanting ;
We think how great had been our bliss
If Heaven had but assign'd us
To live and die in scenes like this,
With some we've left behind us !

As travelers oft look back at eve
When eastward darkly going,
To gaze upon that light they leave
Still faint behind them glowing,—
So, when the close of pleasure's day
To gloom hath near consign'd us,
We turn to catch one fading ray
Of joy that is left behind us.

The French Club "Les Jeunes Francais"

President	CHARLES SIGERSON
Vice-President	ESTELLE SIMARD
Secretary	PAULINE SULLIVAN
Treasurer	RAYMOND HAITHWAITE
Faculty Adviser	EARL J. WATT

Misfortune struck a cruel blow at the French Club this year in the loss of the adviser, Miss Gay. Under the able guidance of our new instructor, Mr. Watt, the group took up the work anew.

The purpose of the French Club is to enable the students to become better acquainted with popular French games and songs—the knowledge of which cannot be received from ordinary text books.

Meetings are held the first Monday of each month. An entertainment committee was elected which presented games and songs. Vocabulary contests revealed the extent of the knowledge of French words and phrases.

Success is prophesied for the future and we all join in exclaiming:—"Vive Les Jeunes Francais!"

In a world that is becoming so modernized that it is turning from the classical foundations of our literature, it is refreshing that a group of earnest students can find so much pleasure in the extra curricula pursuit of Latin and Roman history.

The activity of the Club, properly called the Romani Hodierni by its members, lends itself to the gaining of much classical knowledge through the pleasant medium of games and plays. Dubious new members soon become enthusiastic participants, and their only complaint is that complications of time and space prohibit more meetings.

The energetic director of these activities is Miss F. Christine Booth whose efforts for the betterment of the Hodierni always seem to accomplish the impossible by raising Club endeavors to new heights.

C. H. S. without the Romani Hodierni would lose some of that scholastic prestige enjoyed by her. For this and a multitude of other reasons we cry "Bene: Romani Hodierni".

Treasurer	HOWARD MARSHALL
Faculty Adviser	PROCTOR P. WILSON

What happens when H_2SO_4 is added to $C_{12}H_{22}O_{11}$ (better known as sugar)? A roomful of Junior and Senior initiates to the mystic rites of chemistry and physics are considering this question. This is the Chemistry Club, an active group of several years standing.

Under Proctor P. Wilson, club mentor, another successful year has elapsed. In the monthly gatherings not only strange and humorous experiments were performed, but educational motion pictures were provided. In an atmosphere of gaiety and scientific lore, the meetings prospered exceedingly.

A club supported by such unflagging enthusiasm cannot fail. Rise, young proselytes, to maintain this club so well supported by your predecessors! The world of science lies before you containing secrets merely waiting for your searching light.

"Mr. Chairman, Members of the Chelmsford High School Debating Society, Friends—" Yes, indeed, the forensic art has at last come into its own at Chelmsford High School.

This club is a new venture which owes its initial success to the untiring efforts and able guidance of its director, Mr. MacLaughlin. The popularity of the club soon made it necessary to divide the organization into two groups, meeting Tuesday and Thursday of each week. Participants seemed to develop over night in their earnest desire to acquire the ability to speak forcefully and convincingly in public. Many closely contested verbal battles were fought before interested audiences, and the enthusiasm of the club members brought additional membership until it became necessary to hold the meetings in Room 5. Further growth was impossible under our present over-crowded conditions and aspirants for admission were often confronted with a "Standing Room Only" sign affixed on the door.

The first public event of the society was a successful debate presented before the Parent Teachers Association on May 6 by six of the most active members of the society.

All those who are acquainted with the work of the organization fully appreciate the value of such worthy and beneficial undertakings. Plans are in progress for the prize debate in June and for the termination of a successful year's activities with a banquet.

At present, plans are being formulated for inter-class and even inter-scholastic debates next year. A busy future seems assured for this active group.

The orchestra has enjoyed another year of interesting activity under the capable leadership of Miss Hyde. Composed of a group of students who like music and have a keen interest in the development of skill in the playing of classical music, this group has practiced faithfully every Wednesday afternoon in Room 10.

As in former years the orchestra has appeared several times at assembly and at our school functions in the evenings. It is hoped as time goes on and facilities for our assemblies become more adequate that we will have an opportunity to hear our orchestra more often and in varied programs.

Here's wishing all the luck in the world to one of my "bestest" pals!
 Let's always remain so!

An organization, regardless of size or purpose, will gain better results after it has received a good "housecleaning," just as an automobile will run smoother and make a much better appearance after it has been given a complete overhauling. This fact has been proved by the superior quality of the magazine published by the Blue Moon Staff this year. A rearrangement of the Staff proved to be highly satisfactory; and the huge success which this change brought about greatly increased the popularity of the magazine.

The interest in the "Blue Moon" has been increased largely by the creation of a new department—"Special Features." The editor's originality and sense of humor caused a great deal of excitement throughout the school. The piquant and pointed editorials of the Editor-in-Chief have caused much comment, and the editorial department has ceased to "just fill in space." All in all, the literary departments were greatly improved. The humor section was more humorous, the literary section more varied, the sports, clubs, exchange sections were complete and accurate.

The attractive appearance of the magazine was due to the clever drawings of the two talented young artists and to the excellency of the work done by the typists. The efficiency of the business manager and the circulation manager was consistent and invaluable.

The editor-in-chief, the literary adviser, and the proof readers deserve a great deal of credit for their work and untiring efforts to make the magazine successful.

The wholehearted cooperation and able guidance of both advisers, Miss MacBrayne and Miss Maynard, was greatly appreciated by the members of the staff, who realized that they could not have achieved success without their aid.

The Health Club is composed of girls of the Senior Class, under the efficient leadership of our school nurse, Mrs. Mae Lewis.

The girls gather twice a month for informal discussions about health and wholesome activities. Several of the members gave special topics on the preservation of health. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Lewis, the girls have had the pleasure of listening to some excellent talks by several very able adult speakers.

At the close of the football season the Health Club held a banquet in honor of the Chelmsford football squad. Among the other activities sponsored by the girls are a theatre party, a Health Club dance, a pleasure outing, and an observation trip to some nearby institution.

The Chelmsford High Health Club has filled an urgent need in the life of C. H. S., and we hope it may have a very prosperous and happy future under its capable adviser.

Every year at Chelmsford High School we find a few of our outstanding commercial students working diligently for the convenience of all who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity of depositing in our high school bank. Despite the fact that our overcrowded condition makes the functioning of the banking system most difficult, the year has been successful. Many students, realizing that continuous saving is an attainment worth striving for, have deposited faithfully each week. However, the majority of students, because of various economic and financial reasons, have not been able to acquire the habit of systematic savings.

The trustees have enjoyed the service which they have rendered to the pupils and the school, as well as the confidence which they have obtained by applying their knowledge of bookkeeping to actual practice. They are to be commended and congratulated on the excellent manner and cooperative spirit which they have shown in the fulfillment of the responsible duties placed upon them.

The Problems of American Democracy Club

President	ROBERT T. DUTTON
Vice-President	JAMES ROBINSON
Secretary	ISABELLE HAMILTON
Judges	MARSHALL HOLT, JOHN BATCHELDER, JAMES ROBINSON, RALPH CAPUANO, LOUIS BENNETT, DORIS RUSSELL, HARLAN BURNS
Faculty Adviser	LUCIAN H. BURNS, Principal

The Problems of American Democracy Club this year again followed the precedent set forth by the classes of the three preceding years and formed their club under Principal Lucian H. Burns.

The purpose of the club is to put into practice the principles of citizenship and personal responsibility and thereby prepare the individual to go on in life with a better understanding of how to face modern problems.

With minor adjustments, this year's club adopted and set themselves wholeheartedly to the task of carrying out the "Code of Ethics" found at the end of this article.

Great progress has been made in improving the conduct of the pupils on the grounds during the school hours. The club realizes that they are not perfect, but go steadily onward through both encouraging and discouraging hours with one purpose in mind: to make Chelmsford High School a better school. They feel that it is an act of friendship to point out the mistakes to erring ones, and hope that the suggestions are taken in the same spirit that they are given. It is hoped that the excellent work being done by the Club will be continued with increasing helpfulness to the students of Chelmsford High School.

The following is the Code of Ethics which the Club adopted:—

“Code of Ethics”

1. There shall be no smoking on the school grounds.
2. No destruction of school property.
3. No note writing.
4. No outside magazines or newspapers other than those which deal with school work.
5. There shall be no loitering in the halls of the building after or during school hours.
6. There shall be no truancy.
7. The keeping of such articles as papers, glass, food, etc. off the campus.
8. Cooperation of the pupils in obtaining neat classrooms.
9. Remain on school grounds during school hours unless given permission to do otherwise.
10. Be courteous at all times, conducting yourselves as ladies and gentlemen.
11. Use no language unbecoming to students of Chelmsford High.
12. Use no ink in school other than that which is in the ink wells or fountain pens.
13. No wearing of letters which are not earned in athletics by a person who has any connection with Chelmsford High School.
14. There shall be no throwing chalk, etc., in the school building.
15. It is expected that pupils practice self-discipline when the teacher is out of the room.

The Tightwad

"Brother, can you spare a dime?"—"No!" Thus was the situation when the spendthrift, Tommy Jordon, turned tightwad. Edna Taylor, his fiancée, was the cause of this sudden change. No more three-pound boxes of candy, no more flowers, and no more extravagant enjoyments was her command. Little did she realize the consequences which would result from her innocent plan to prepare him for married life.

Misfortune seemed to center its unwelcome affects upon Mr. Taylor. Nothing pleased him—except Mrs. Taylor, who satisfied his every whim and comforted him in his troublesome state of mind. After much arguing with Mr. Taylor and Elmer, Tommy invested the family savings in a real estate deal with promises of large returns. Mr. Taylor, under the impression that he had suddenly become wealthy from his plunge into the real estate market, hired three Swedish servants—Larz Anderson, Mrs. Anderson and their daughter, Martha. In a burst of independence and importance he resigned the position which he had held for forty years and prepared for a life of leisure.

The final outcome proved the 'Tightwad' to be a shrewd investor and the origin of happiness for the Taylor family—especially, Edna.

Each member of the cast was well chosen and suited his part in every respect. Norman Hoelzel, the tightwad, gave an excellent performance, while his fiancée, Helen McQuade, showed much dramatic talent and ability. Charles Sigerson was a perfect specimen of a stern parent—we can truly classify him as a real actor. He was ably supported by Margaret Winters, as Mrs. Taylor, who had all the poise and charm which accompanies gray hair and middle age.

Robert Dutton, although his father thought he had a weak mind, showed real strength of character with his outstanding performance. Doris Russell portrayed to us a perfect Mamie in a most pleasing manner. Fred Mills, the unwanted suitor, succeeded in winning the admiration of the audience.

Now we must mention the three Swedes. William Smith developed a very eccentric walk and a new line of talk with the ease of a veteran performer. Pauline Sullivan looked very stylish in her new hat—and was she good?—"Yaw!" Frances Krasnecki filled her part exceptionally well, even to rolling her eyes at Bob Dutton. Last, but not least, in the cast was Donald Rafferty, as the taxi driver, who made his entrances and exits both snappy and effective.

The Class of '35 appreciates to many extra hours of work and coaching contributed by their advisers, Miss Booth and Mr. Dean, to make this play a success.

Humor

For health and the constant enjoyment of life, give me a keen and ever present sense of humor; it is the next best thing to an abiding faith in providence—G. B. Cheever
