Ain't love grand!

Our honorary Lord Battle

"Wonderful Tonight" in Camelot

The iridescent moon reflected off the peaceful Nile, Pharaohs, stately dressed, escorted their exquisite ladies to the Great Pyramid, where they paid tribute to the accomplishments of the past year. The massive chambers were transformed to fit this evening's theme "Wonderful Tonight" in Camelot.

The couples entered through a castle drawbridge resembling the land of King Arthur. Shining coats of armor adorned the once brick wall. Balloons hung from the ceiling, and twinkling stars were suspended from the rooftop.

A banquet fit for royalty was set for the nobility. Tables, reaching across the room, were lavishly arranged to celebrate the festival. As the music flowed through the air, couples danced in revelry.

As the night drew to an end, a closeness was felt among the Class of 1990. We realized we could overcome any obstacle, achieve any goal, and rule in the land of Pharaohs.

Modern love

Chug it, Tor!

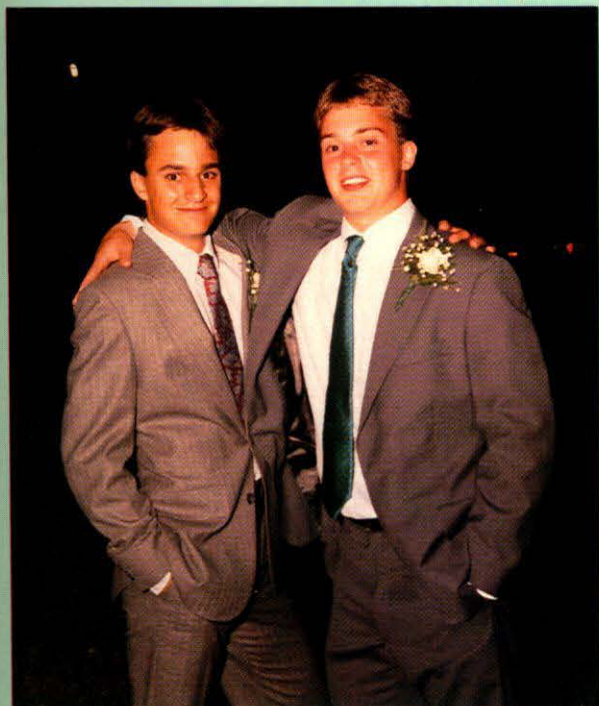

Hey, girls, where are your dates?

Keith and Craig, you make such a cute couple!

Class of '90" Junior Cotillion — we'll remember it forever.

"Hi" Mom and Dad!

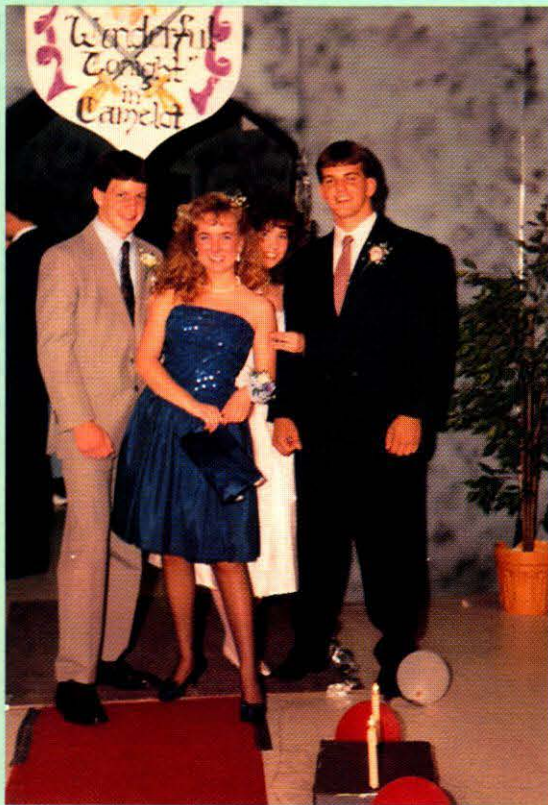

Don't just sit there; get up and dance!

What cute couples!

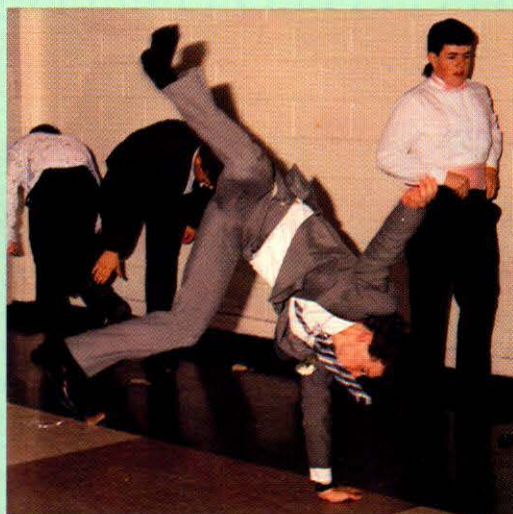

Who is it going to be Nicole, Mike or Craig?

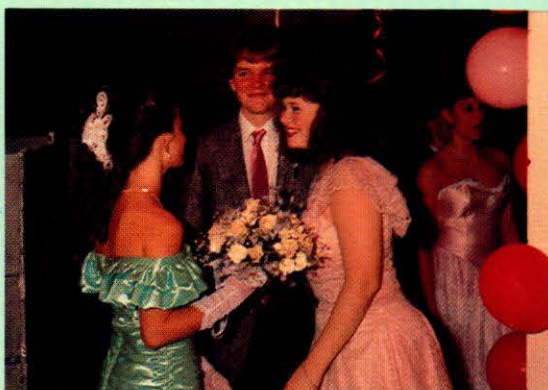

You want us to do what?

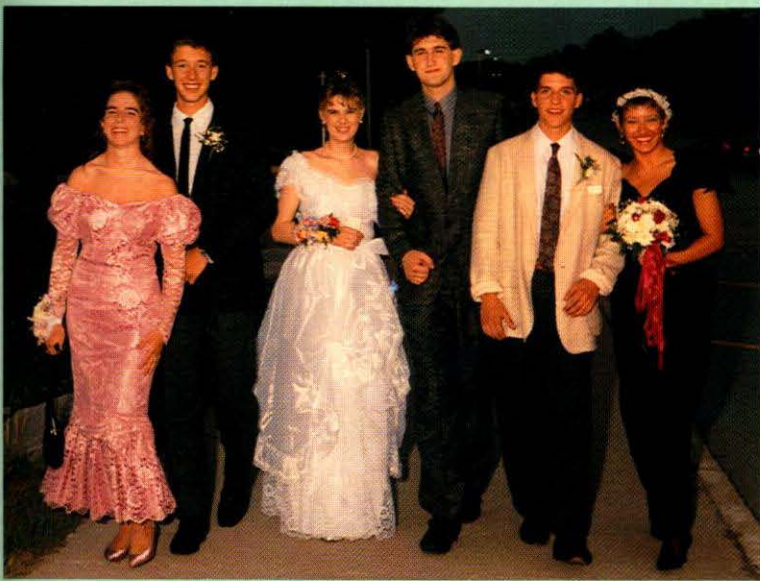

Joe and his date are having a "Wonderful Night" in Camelot.

Is this a new dance move?

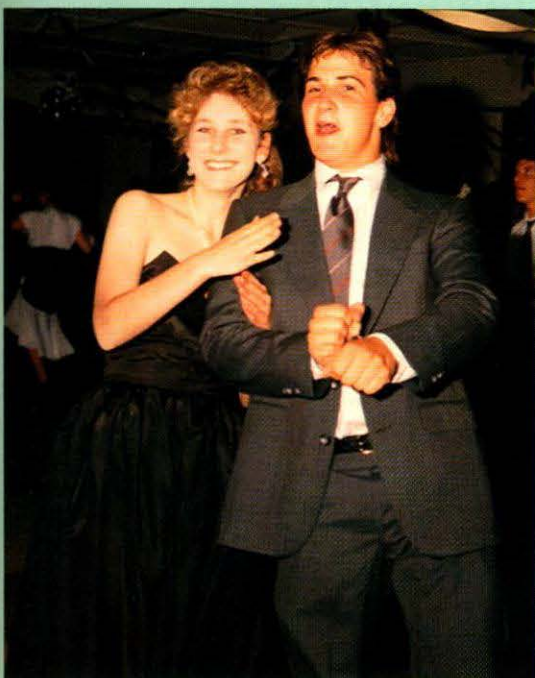

Stacey, are you telling stories again?

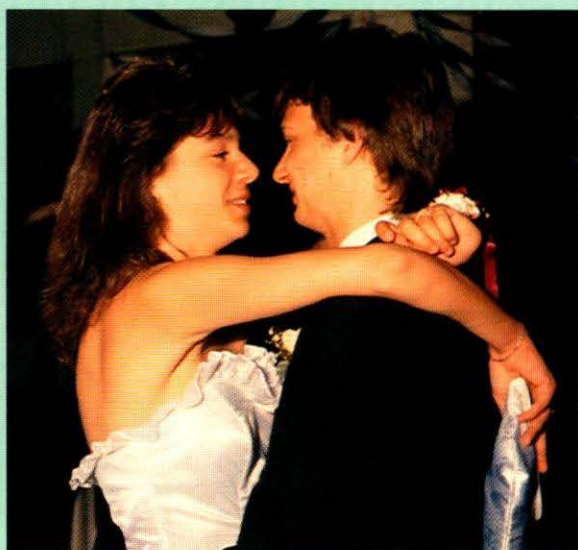

... follow the yellow brick road ...

Which way to the food?

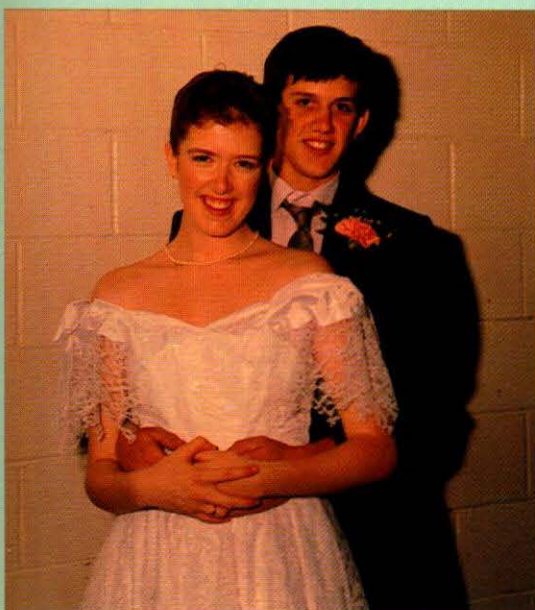

Try not to have such a bad time!

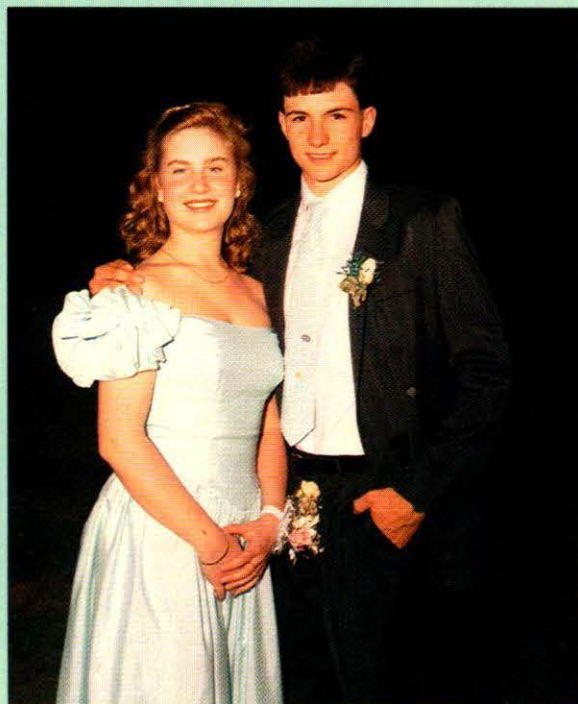

Dancing the night away

Are we having fun yet?

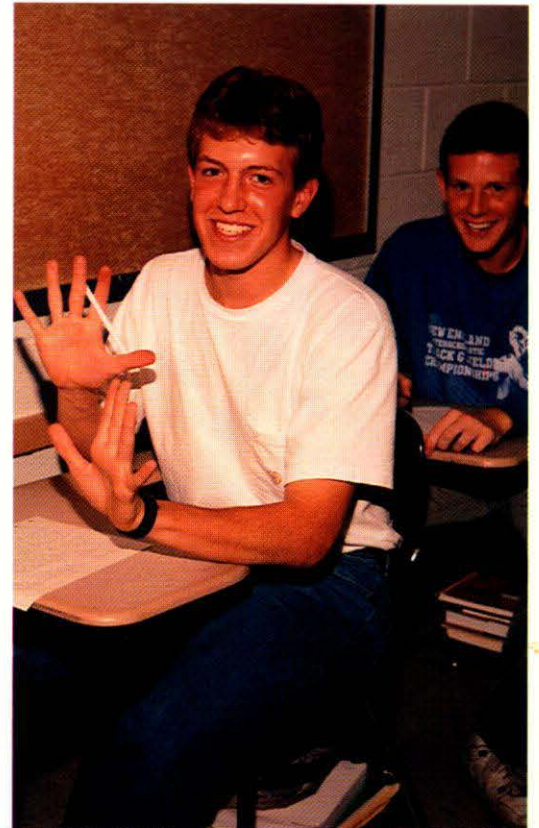

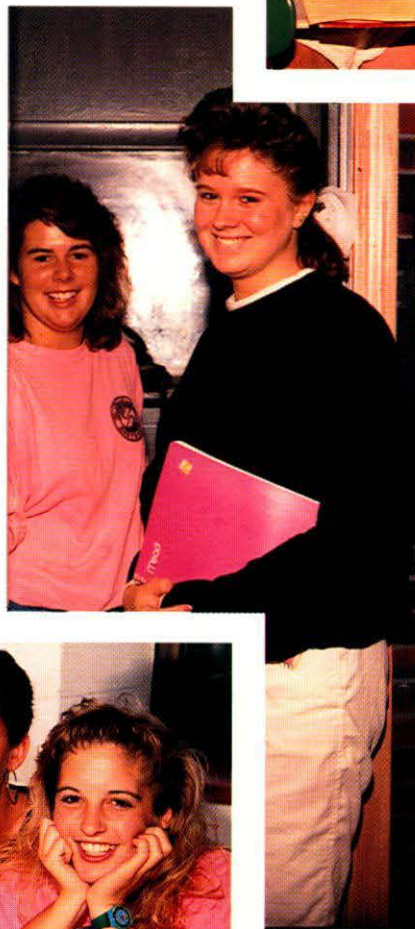

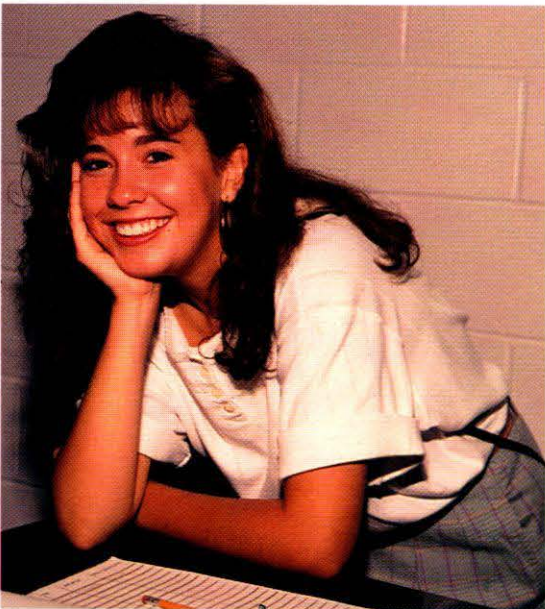

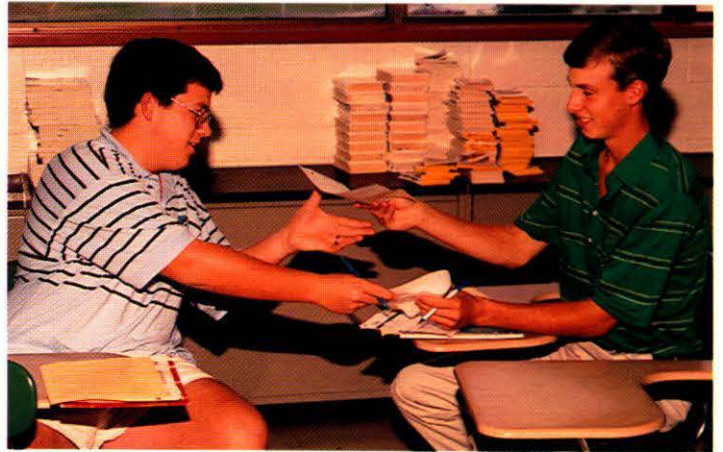

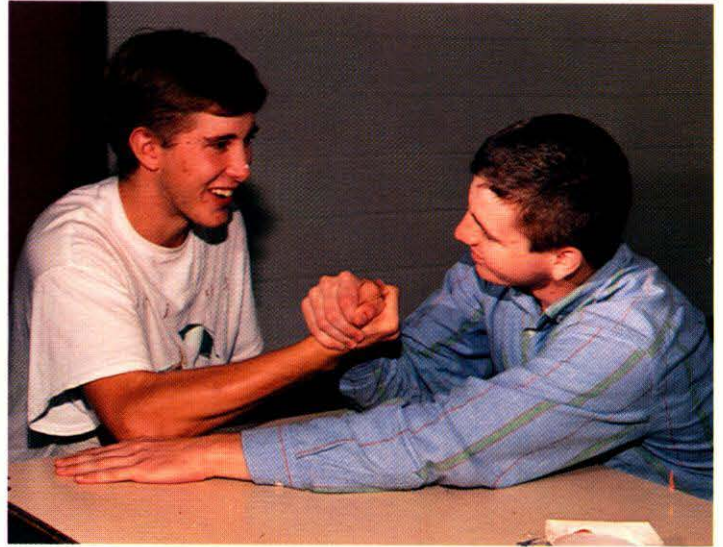

Hold me tight, never let me go.

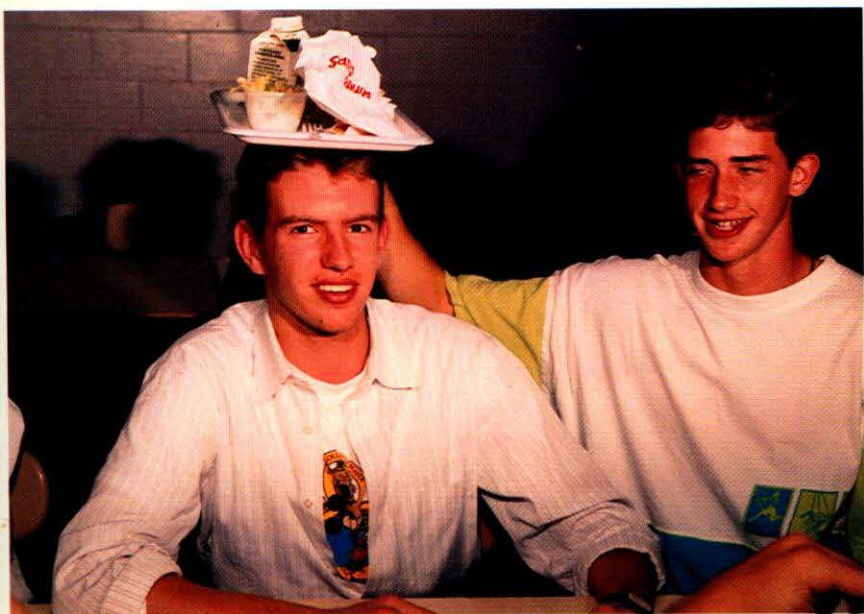

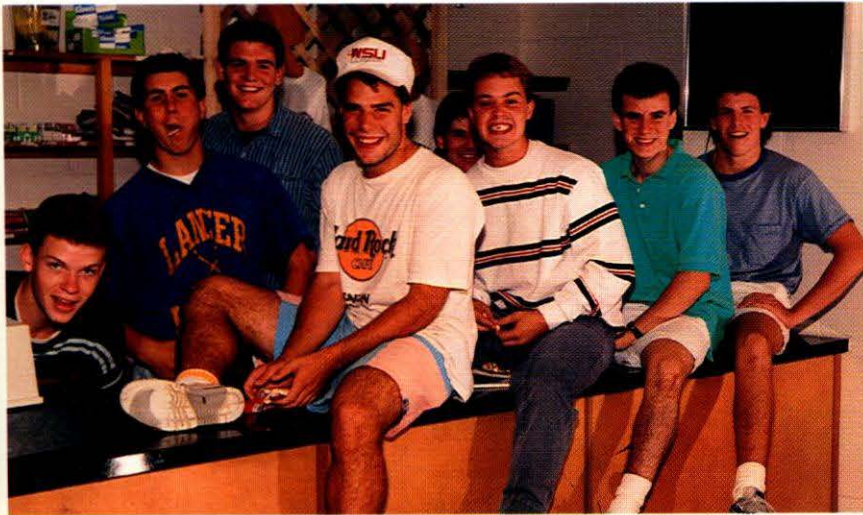

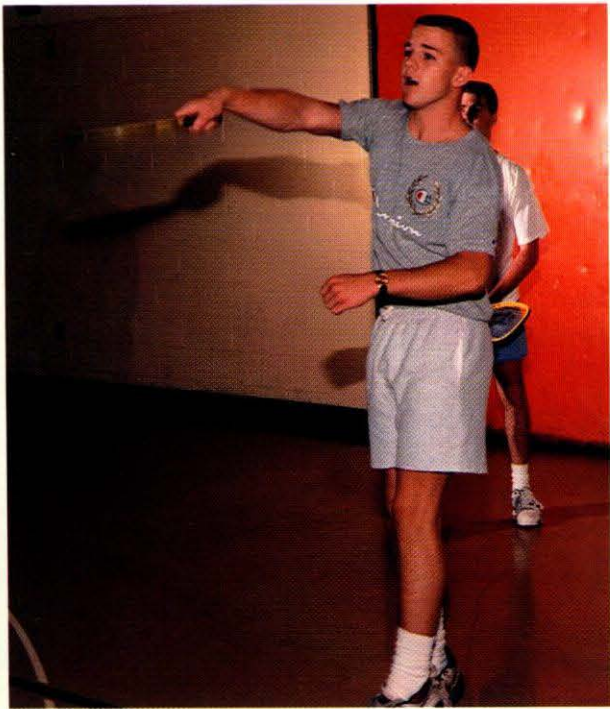

If we stand here long enough, they might take our picture.

Bobby and Keliann are obviously having a great time!

Monster Mash!

As we stepped through the gates and rounded the corner toward the shouting and laughing, we were attacked by ghouls, goblins, and a pregnant nun. Beetlejuice became apparent after looking further into the abyss. We decided to continue our quest; it didn't seem to be too creepy deeper into the infamous cafeteria. Venturing on, we passed by a joker, Ernie & Bert, and the nerd of the century. There were mermaids and babies and cowboys and Indians, all dancing away the night.

The room was filled with diversities, not only in costume, but in personality. Yet under the strange aura of Halloween, everything intermingled.

Listening to the crowd, there were some common expressions heard throughout: "Hey, what's up?" and "You look great!" If you listened carefully, sometimes you could hear a person timidly ask, "What are you?" Strangely enough, throughout the entire evening, there was not one "BOO!"; but it was a strange evening.

The famous Hanson Brothers!

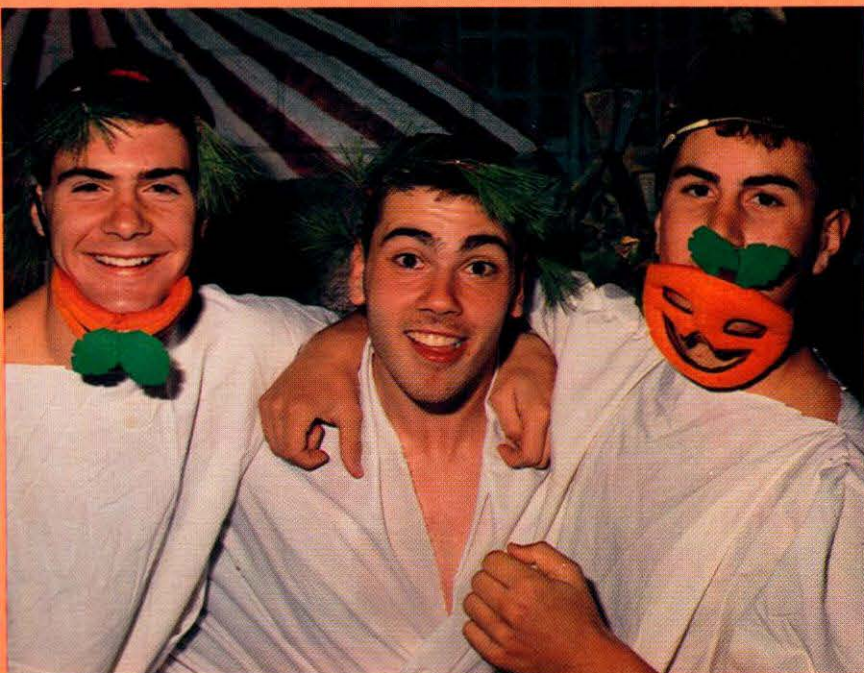

Just baby us!

... and they come in five assorted flavors.

Look at those eyebrows!

Funny little Greeks.

"Melanie, throw it to first!"

Aren't there supposed to be ten little Indians?

What a cute couple!

"ugga bugga!"

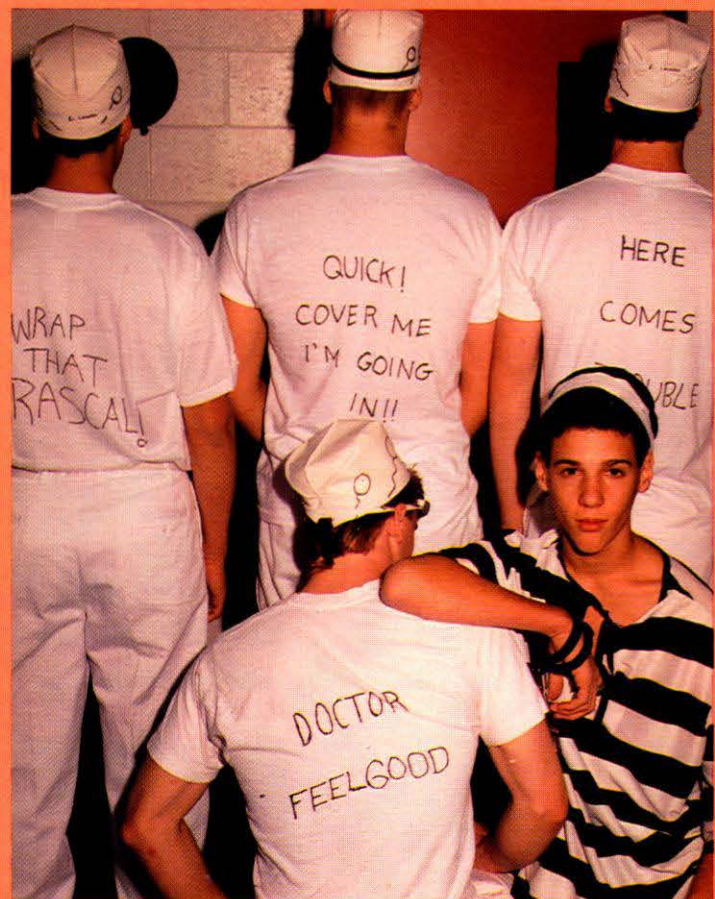

"Come back to Jamaica . . ."

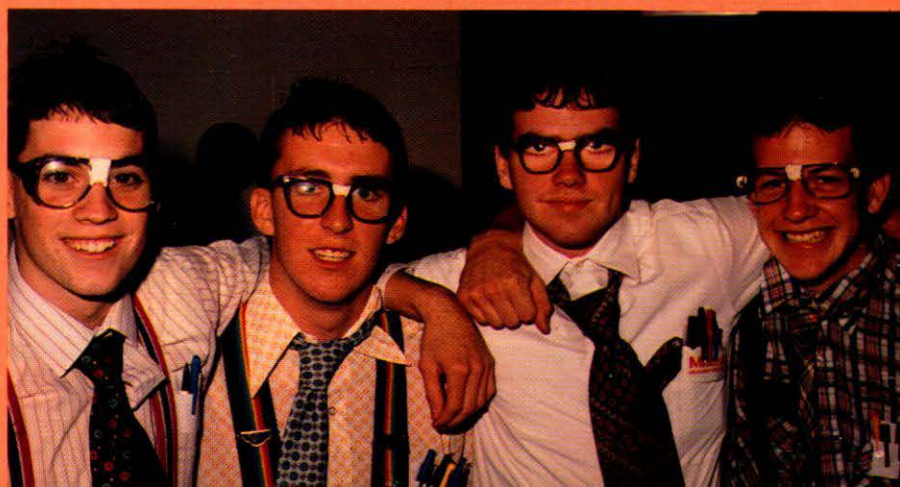

BOO! Did I scare ya?

Mike, does that thumb taste good?

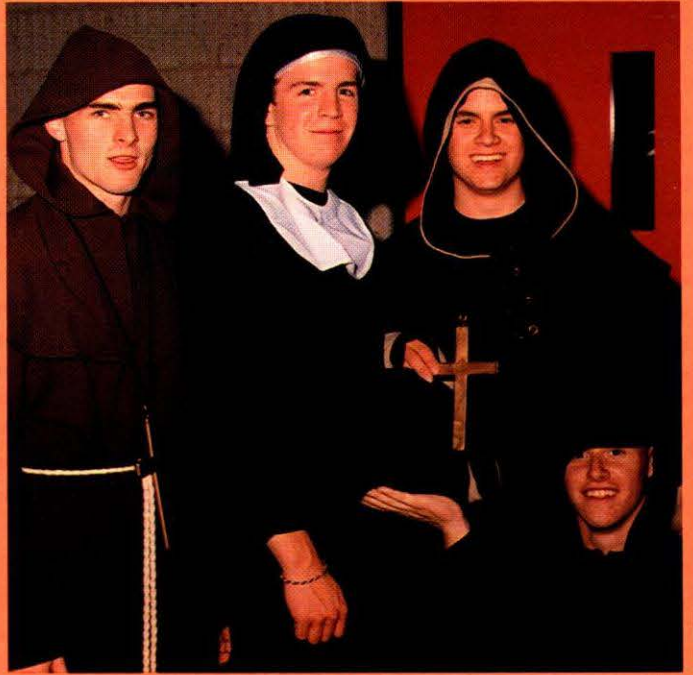

Neil, are you lost?

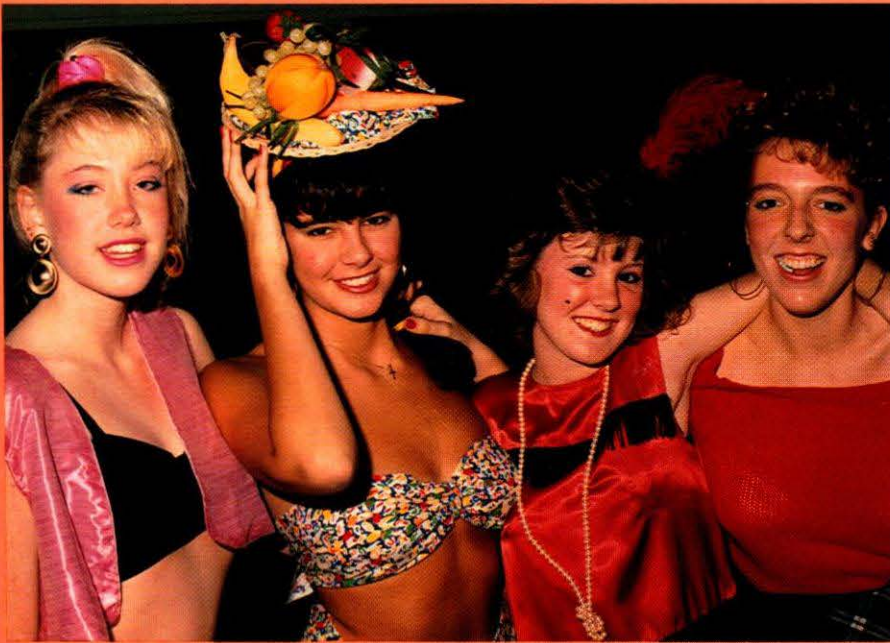

Looking good guys!

What a motley crew!

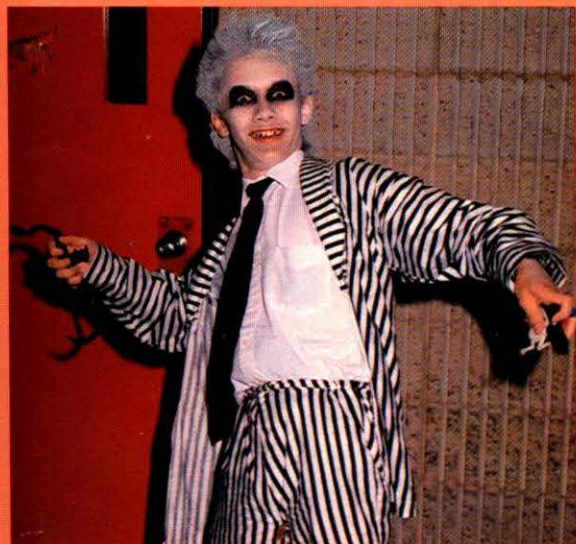

Breaking vows, are we?

Yes, we have no bananas . . .

Is that you Dave Newman?

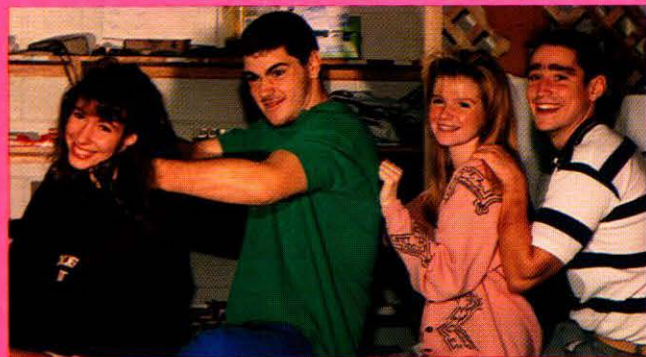

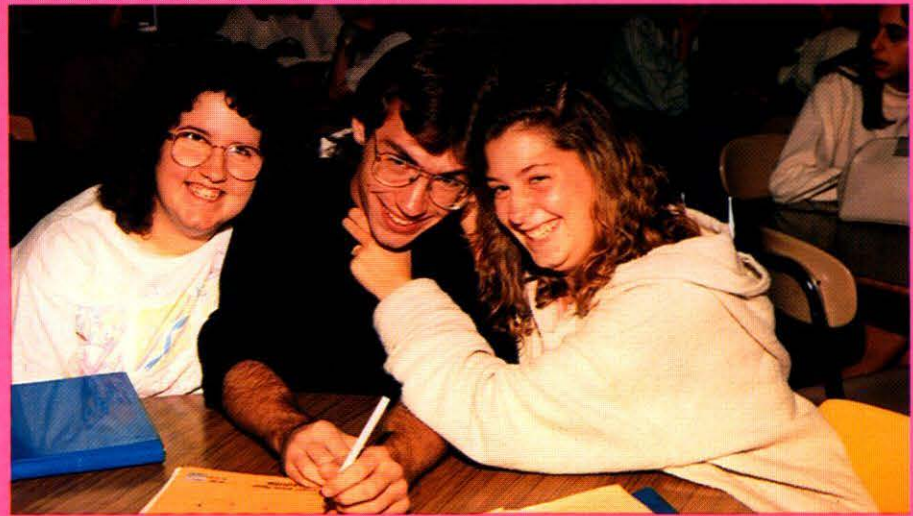

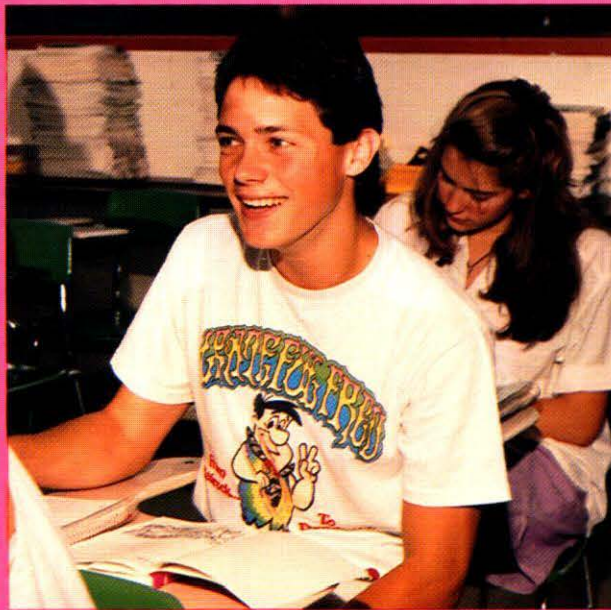

Beetlejuice.

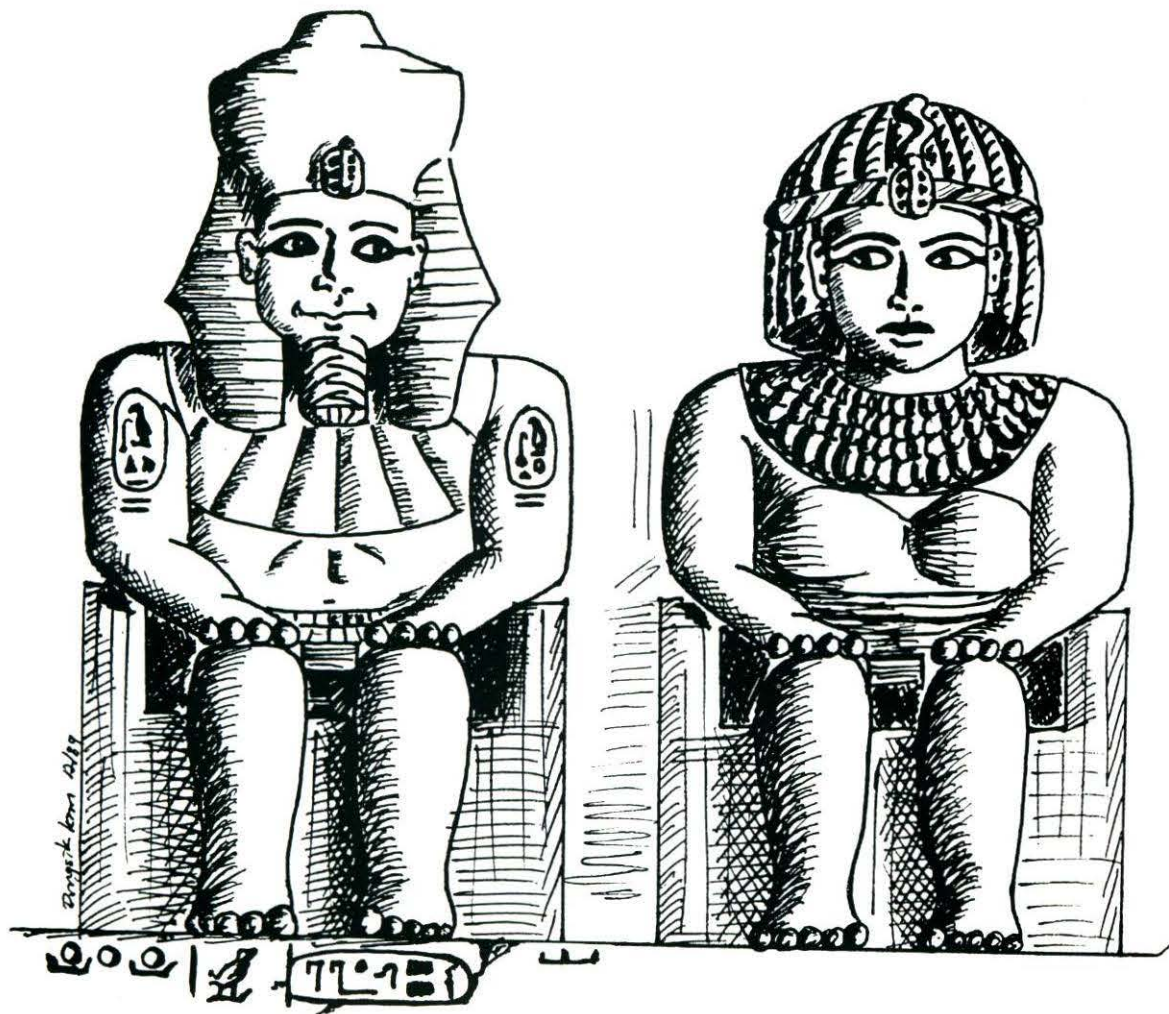

Surf's up, dude!

Pharoahs

The Pharoahs of 1990 are the moral and spiritual leaders of Chelmsford High School. A long journey of twelve years has prepared the Pharoahs to lead the caravan. They lead with the utmost care. Although the journey is long and hard, the Pharoahs guide their subjects to take part in such important rituals as Senior Week, which bring a sense of unity to the class, to feel a common spirit which is essential to their survival.

Pharoahs also set a fine example of personal integrity and self reliance for all to follow in leading future dynasties. After building their pyramid of knowledge, they have placed the capstone and are ready to walk on. The class of 1990 has left behind in their sacred tombs a monument to their leadership. Cast in stone are the visages of the Pharoahs of 1990.

CLASS OFFICERS

Our past four years at Chelmsford High School have given us wonderful memories. As freshmen we stayed in hiding, seeking out familiar faces, overwhelmed by what our new school had to offer. Gradually, by sophomore year we opened our eyes, experienced new activities, participated in sports and met new people. The year ended with an unforgettable trip to Canobie Lake Park on a rainy Friday afternoon!

Our junior year was filled with excitement. Fundraisers, dances, class t-shirts, and, of course, the Junior Cotillion were the precursors of what was to come.

Our senior year arrived with a bang! We danced the night away at the Morp, Halloween dance and Holiday dance. We demonstrated our class spirit at the Pep rally, our capabilities at the talent show, and sold magazines to whomever we could find. Of course, the success of our class would not be possible without the tireless efforts of the class representatives and officers: Jamie Athanasoulas, Vice President; Christine Rysz, Secretary and Michelle Tobin, Treasurer. Most importantly the dedication of our Advisors, Mrs. Joan Monahan and Mrs. Linda Geohegan will always be appreciated.

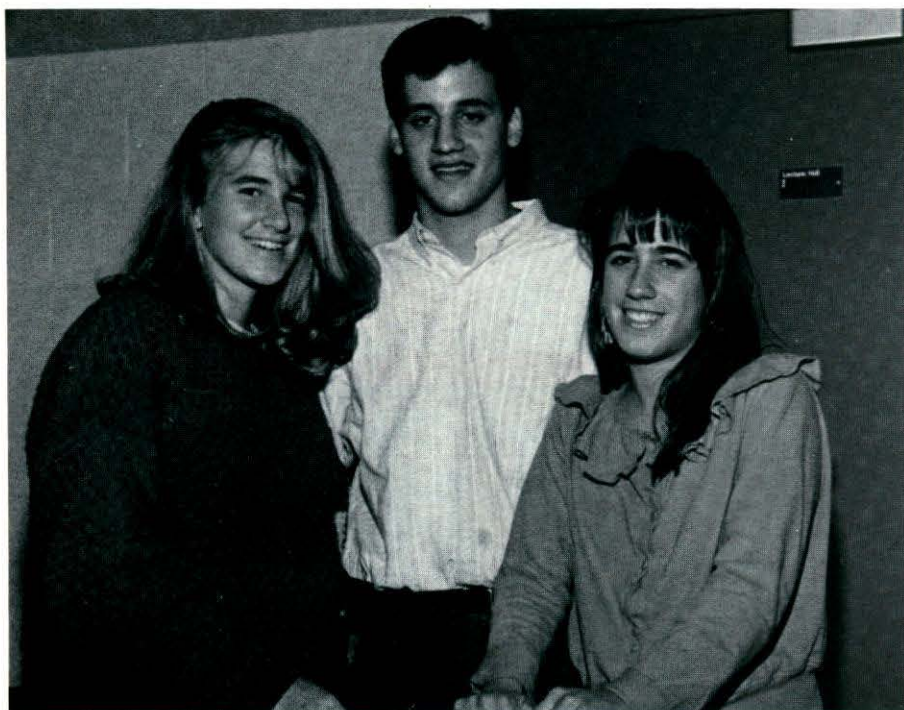

Senior week quickly arrived. So did the realization that our greatest times are now ending. We have reached our goal, the peak of the pyramid — graduation. We must meet a new challenge, perhaps, the most difficult one of all. We must take the valuable education we received at Chelmsford High School and apply it to the even more demanding test of life.

As your class president, it has been a pleasure to be a part of these past four years. You have made it a memorable and enjoyable experience. Always remember your good times and good friends. Best of luck in all that you do. May all your dreams come true!

Hail the Pharaohs!

Maybe? Maybe not?

The Magazine Caravan

Thursday morning, September 28, 1989, four-hundred fifteen boisterous pharaohs congregated in the gymnasium to get pumped up sell papyrus, tablets, and music. It was time for the Senior Magazine drive. At the assembly there were contests between fellow Pharaohs, prizes won, and incentives escalated. For the next ten days, eager rulers set out to conquer their land in pursuit of buyers. Senior spirit was high. Imported chocolates, jewelled crowns, armor bearing and Pharaohs' insignia, and pet lions were awarded for sales. By the close of the drive, the regal class had raised $35,600 in gold. Much thanks goes to Mr. Battle for his guidance, and praise is due to the Senior Class for their sponsorship.

Stop! Stop, hold the applause.

An army of papyrus peddlers

Hats on to the magazine drive.

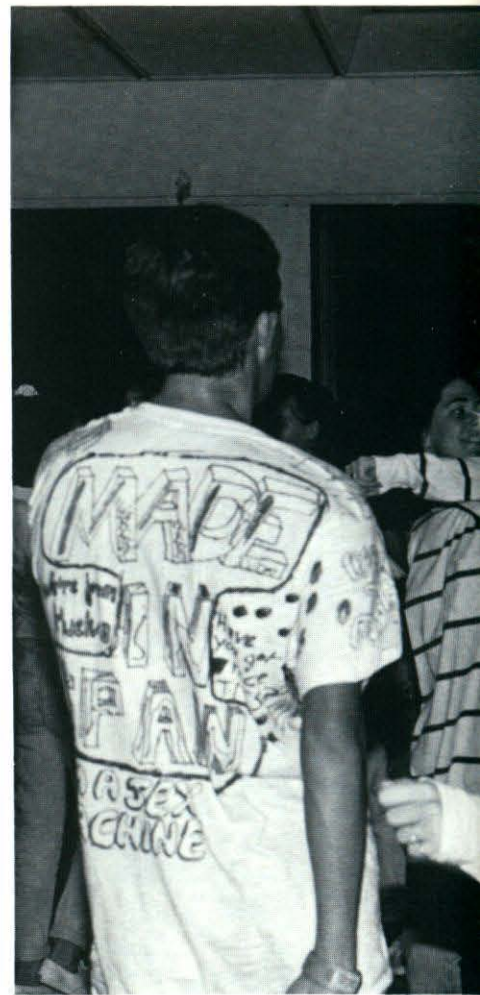

The magazine caravan is the best fundraiser

The Morp

Hey! Look no further, the party is here!

Dedication

Webster defines a teacher as "one who instructs." To use this limited description of Mr. Jeff Doherty would be like referring to the Grand Canyon as a big hole. Mr. "D" is a friend, confidante, fan, booster, listener, and a generally, good guy."

There is a self-proclaimed touch of Peter Pan in Mr. "D". Therein lies the secret of his success with the young people of C.H.S. He looks behind the basic teenager and sees a young person facing the challenges, problems and conflicts of growing up. To this struggle he lends his wisdom, wit and support. He not only conducts challenging, entertaining, thought-provoking English classes but he has undertaken the rewarding, demanding roles as Junior Varsity coach for Girls Soccer, Softball and Winter Track. His encouragement, patience and teaching has led to a host of successful varsity athletes. His presence at dances, athletic events, or any school activities is guaranteed. He has served as class advisor many times. Over the years, he has endeared himself to thousands of students who cherish his humor, guidance, and commitment.

The Class of 1990 is pleased and honored to recognize the contribution and dedication, not only to our class, but to all of C.H.S., that Mr. Doherty has made. We trust that this small gesture will in some measure repay him for being an outstanding teacher, an enthusiastic supporter, and a caring person. Thanks for being Mr. "D".

Mr. "D" surrounded by his adoring fans.

Making sure everything runs smoothly in and out of the class.

It was Wonderful

On May 19, 1989, the eve of the Junior Cotillion, there was a frantic effort to transform cafeterias 1 and 11 into the fantasy land of Camelot. Advisors, representatives, and members of the Class of 1990 decorated with much enthusiasm and vigor for many hours. Finally the transformation was complete. The hallway was lined with majestic castle walls and a royal sunset, while balloons swayed elegantly from the ceiling. The walls of the room were covered with coats of armour, while the twinkling lights reflected upon the dangling stars. The furnishings of the dining room were worthy of its royal revellers. Everything was perfect for a "Wonderful Night in Camelot."

Arinne is literally wrapped up in her work.

Nicole, where's yours?

Mr. Betses is all smiles, he must be having a good time.

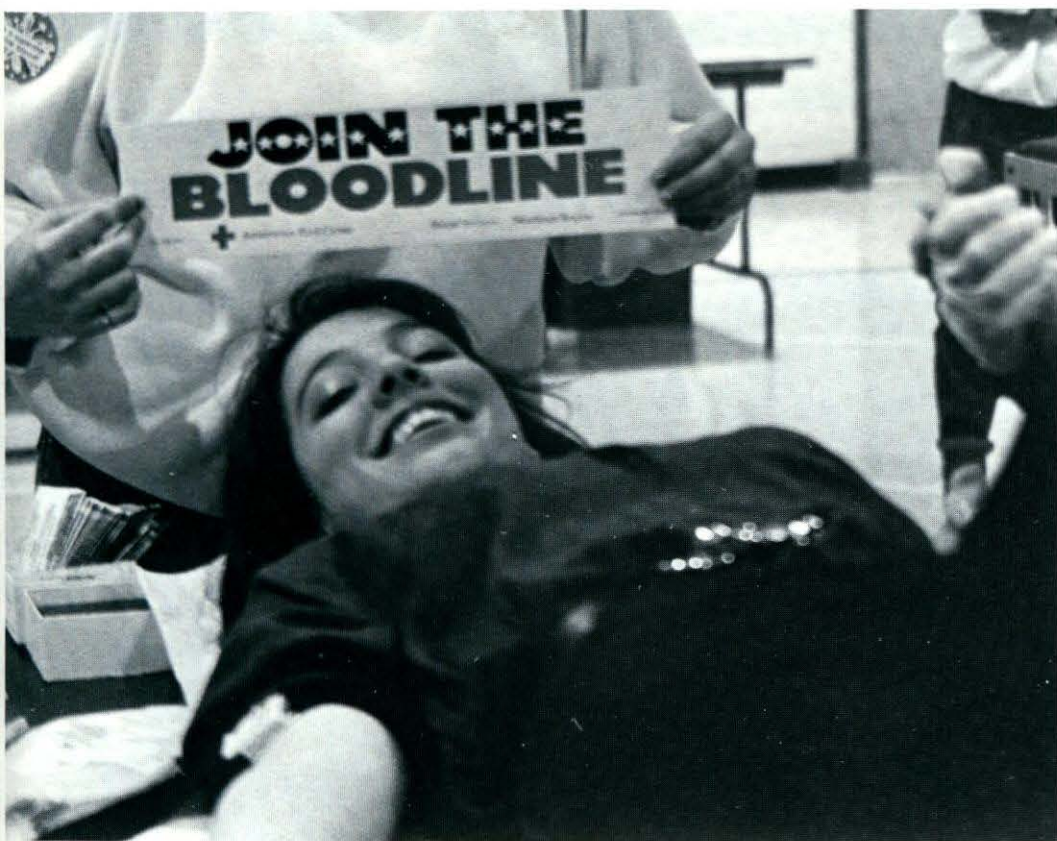

Wow! The rep's really did a great job setting up the Cotillion.

For Chris Rysz, concentration is the key to hanging up balloons

*Friends and faces far from sight,
Brilliant days give ways to nights.
Heartache and a crimson rose,
A soft wind from all directions blows.
Cherished remembrances ever bright,
Memories are never far from sight.
Wisdom comes when beauty goes,
But sorrow twists and sadness knows.*

Holiday Magic

"The stockings were hung by the chimney with care in hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there . . ." On December 15, 1989, "Holiday Magic" was in the air. Snowflakes hung from the ceiling, Christmas trees, beautifully adorned, stood in the corners of the festive room.

All eyes focused on the King and Queen, Michael Frobese and Michelle Gerdoney, as they swept across the floor, arm in arm. Did anyone catch them under the mistletoe?

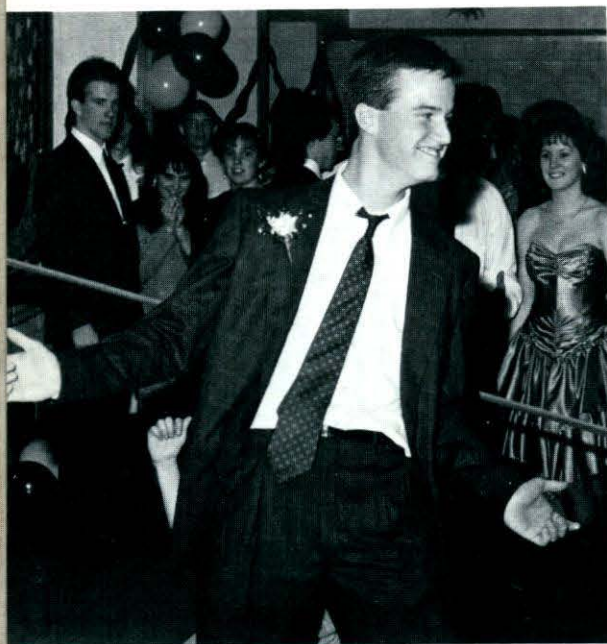

As the evening came to an end, and the joyful, fun filled crowd departed, "they heard him exclaim, as he rode out of sight, Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night."

Everyone was dressed in their holiday best.

Andy and Paige enjoy the wonderful season.

Discovering the Buried Tomes of 1989

As the year 1989 drew to a close, individuals labored furiously — attempting to translate piles of seemingly unrelated events into the next chapter of history. This sparks the historian in each of us as we question how the final tenth of “our” decade will be seen by posterity. Surely it will be seen as an era of magnificent significance.

Nineteen Eighty Nine marks an explosive movement towards worldwide freedom. Each day newspapers greeted us with photos from one of the many struggles for liberty. From China to Eastern Europe peoples fought and protested in hopes of achieving a system based on values first understood by our progenitors 200 years past. Behind much of the spirit infesting these people stood Mikhail Gorbachev whose political reform efforts could only be described as herculean and whose charisma enthralled citizens of the world. At the same time our nation was caught amidst internal struggle as a new president, George Bush, took office and citizens questioned their own freedoms. The right to burn the flag, the freedom of choice to abort a child, and the justice in owning an assault rifle stood as important political questions. The ethics of these issues were of small import when placed beside the larger question they created: what is the government’s right and obligation to provide ethical laws for its citizens?

Nature put on a violent display of strength. Hurricane Hugo tore through the coast of South Carolina, brush fires swept across the hills of Malibu, and an earthquake measuring 7.0 on the Richter scale shook San Francisco. In contrast man’s understanding of nature and power over it bounded forward. Voyager 2, launched twelve years before, passed Neptune in August providing breathtaking photos of the distant planet before continuing its journey beyond our solar system. Although the method was later proven faulty, the claim of two scientists that they had conducted fusion in a cold environment provided the entire scientific community with a new approach and a new hope regarding this puzzling subject.

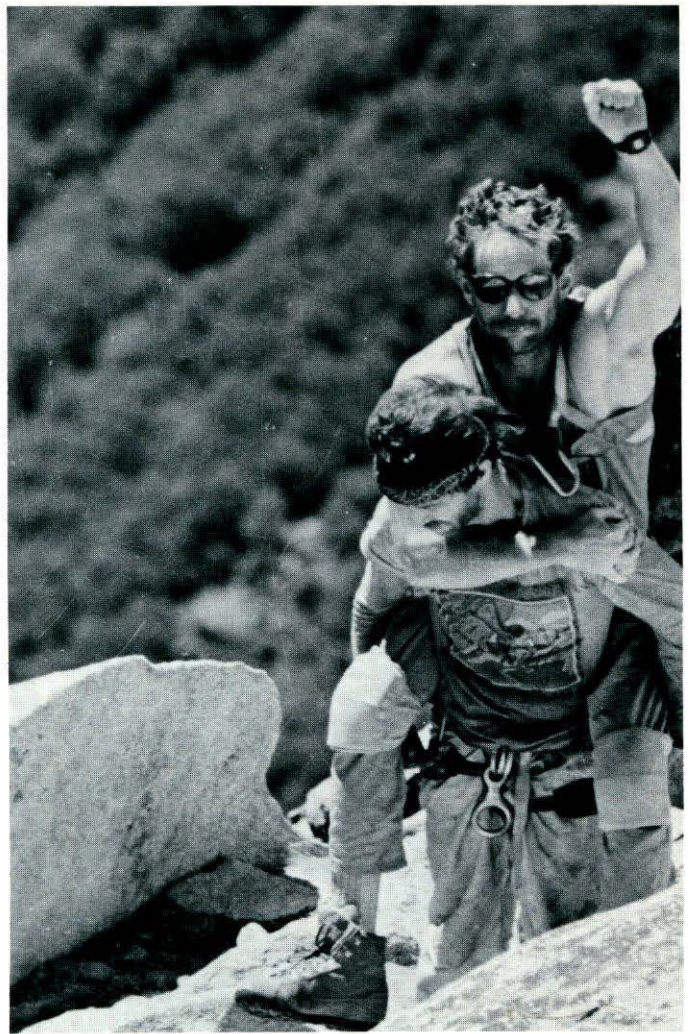

Environmentally, nature continued to be attacked relentlessly by carelessness on the part of big business. This, however, was not without a positive side; through events such as the oil spill off the Exxon Valdez, the national awareness was increased so that efforts to curb the problems were no longer viewed as acts solely for the eccentric. Locally, we all put up with traffic hell as Chelmsford's desire to improve its treatment of the environment was realized with the construction of a town-side sewer system.

The hard hands of personal trial were felt from the world of sports to the world of the spiritual. Cincinnati Reds manager Pete Rose suffered a tragic fall as he was banned from baseball for life due to gambling activities. Televangelist, Jim Bakker, was sentenced to pay for his sin of widespread fraudulence with forty-five years in a minimum security prison. Nevertheless, the passionate kiss of personal triumph far outshined all defeats when Mark Wellman, paralyzed from the waist down, became the first paraplegic to conquer the 3,200 foot climb of El Capitan in the Yosemite.

On the cultural front, it was obvious that pop would remain pop with such performers as Madonna maintaining a firm grasp on the top ten lists. New performers managed to stand out as valid artists as their less mainstream music earned them fame. To name a few, Love and Rockets, Tracy Chapman, 10,000 Maniacs, and jazz artist Kenny G each became successful in their field during 1989. The year also stood to revive the superstars of the past two decades. With a greatest hits tour by The Who, an album tour by the Rolling Stones, and the return of Jefferson Airplane multiple generations found themselves brought together through music. On the celluloid scene, Batman became not only the highest grossing movie in history, but also the most heavily advertised. Starring Michael Keaton and Jack Nicholson the movie was without a doubt Hollywood's pop hit of the decade.

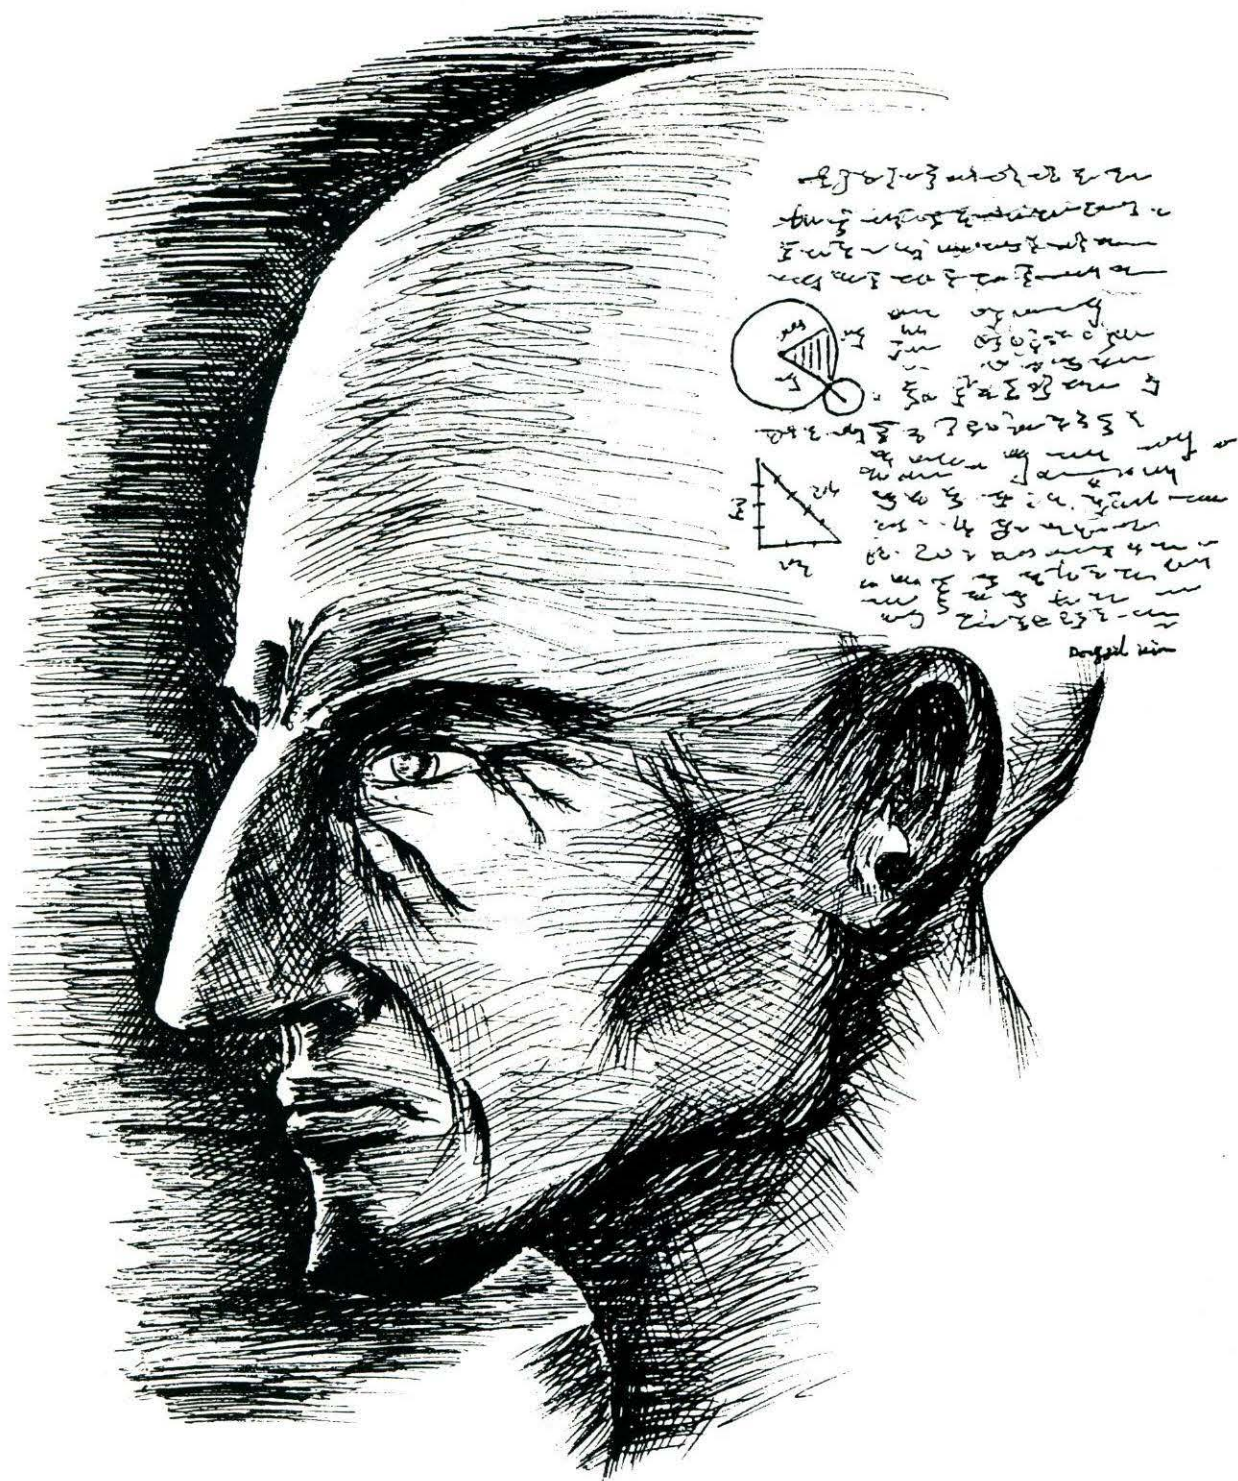

Nineteen Eighty Nine shall be viewed as a magnificent year in history. As history has shown us a year's events can be viewed through the cold eyes of the pessimist or the gentle eyes of the optimist; clearly the remarkable events which will be remembered as 1989 will give an edge to the optimist.

Philosophers

Although the Pharoahs are the moral and spiritual leaders of their empire, it is the Philosophers who shape the direction of their leadership. The Philosophers have devoted their lives to higher thinking and reason, living ascetic lifestyles in the center of learning. Through twelve years of lectures and forums, the Philosophers have begun to impact the child's thinking. The Disciples have been taught that a problem always has more than one solution and that it is wise to consider all alternatives before making a decision. Over the years, the Pharoahs and the Philosophers have developed a relationship based on mutual respect. Herein is a token to the work of the Philosophers so all may know their contribution to the empire.

Peasants

The citizens of ancient Egypt played an essential and critical role in society. Their heroes were the high Pharaohs, the rulers who resided at the top of the pyramid. Here at Chelmsford High School, the citizens are just as important as they were in Egypt. They are the classes of the Nobility, Artisans, and Peasants. The citizens are Egyptians with ambition, determination, and courage. Their goal in life is to become the reigning Pharaohs, to control the land from the top of the highest pyramid to the banks of the wandering Nile. The citizens know what they must do to reach this pinnacle, and that is what they set out to accomplish. Their quest begins as mere Peasants, who are busy adjusting to new surroundings and trying to be recognized by the upper classes. Next, they advance to the rank of the Artisans. They are citizens with a sense of direction; they know what is expected of them. Then, there is the Nobility class. Many of the Pharaoh's responsibilities fall on the Nobility, and they are eager to assist in any way they can.

The citizens are the Pharaohs-to-be, and the experience gained by simply being a citizen will prepare them for their shining moment at the top.

Freshmen

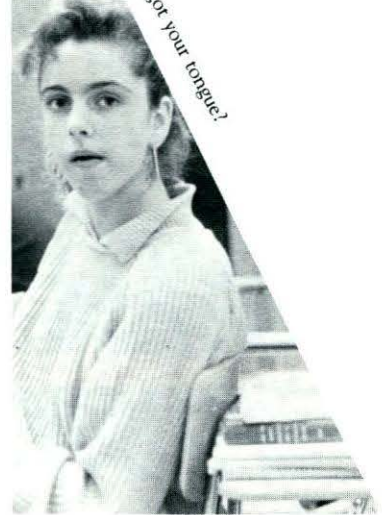

As Peasants, the Class of 1993 stands in awe of those before them, knowing full well that, as a pyramid rises, they, too, will rise in status over the next few years. For now they must work and earn their place along side the Artisans, the Nobility, and the mighty Pharaohs. With time, their skills and abilities will sharpen, their pride will become noble, and their spirit will be kingly. As others have served before them, so must they serve before advancing. The freshmen Peasants will strive to make knowledge flourish, creating an oasis for all who follow. They salute those citizens who rank above them, as they await their barge to dock at the pier of commencement.

The Artisans of 1992

The Artisans are Egyptians with just a little experience. They joined our venture two years ago. So far, they have done exceptionally well. Slowly but surely, the class of '92 has adjusted to the various obstacles that the pyramids present. Overcoming these difficulties may have been tough at first, but now the sophomores can reflect upon all they have achieved. Although still ruled by the Pharoahs and Nobility, the class of '92 is in control of the Peasants, and gaining prestige with each passing day. Even though the Artisans still have a way to go before reaching the top of the pyramid, they can look forward to a bright, promising future at C.H.S., and anxiously await next year, when they will be second in command.

Just another friendly smiling face.

Nobility

1991

The Nobility Class of 1991 has almost reached the top of the pyramid. Next year, they will become the Pharaohs: the highest rulers known to ancient Egypt. Their experience at Chelmsford High School has prepared them for the challenge and excitement that is to come.

The junior class has participated in events, such as fund-raisers and extra-curricular activities. The juniors were an asset to the Thanksgiving Can Drive, the Gift of Happiness, and the Santa Fund.

The Class of 1991 has been kept busy throughout the year. The Nobility has organized the Junior Cotillion. Many have emerged with leadership roles in various sports and activities. The persistence and dedication in all of these areas has helped Chelmsford High School have one of its best years ever.

The future looks bright for the Class of 1991. As they progress up the pyramid, they will enter more advanced studies, perfecting their skills and techniques in order to survive. No doubt, the juniors will achieve their goals with no problems. Their success as the reigning Pharaohs will be their reward.

Festival of Pharoahs

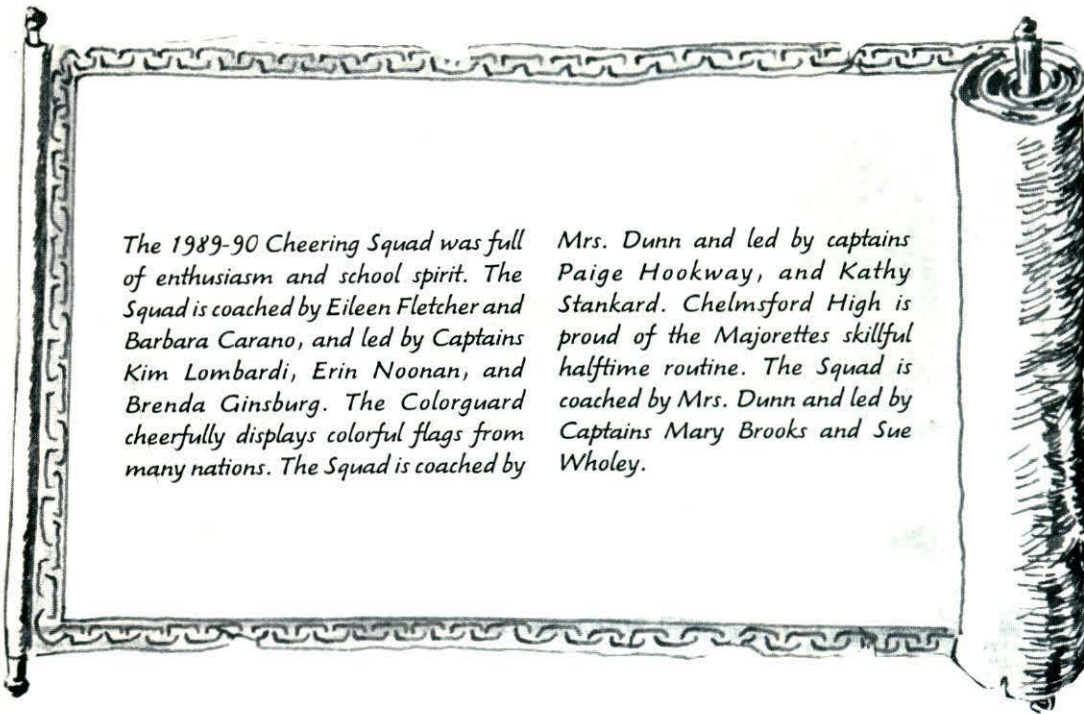

In the Egyptian times, there were innumerable opportunities for enjoyment. At C.H.S., this is also true. One can participate in soccer, swimming, running, hockey, and many other sports. A sport is offered to suit everyone's taste.

The Lions of Chelmsford High are strong and brave. Their opposition is never much competition. Like building a pyramid, Chelmsford High school sports allow students to learn what it is like to work together, to be on a team and to try their best.

Effort and triumph reign here. So, during your four year travel at Chelmsford High, you can undoubtedly find pleasure in the pyramids.

Girls Basketball

The Chelmsford High girls basketball team had a very successful season. Coached by Al Richards, the girls dominated their conference, going 18-0, and 19-1 during the regular season, qualifying for the state tournament. Part of the success was due to the camaraderie of the team. They worked together to accomplish the goals which were set at the beginning of the season. The team's complimentary skills — height, speed, and defense made the MVC champs! The team was lead by captains Laurie Carson, Kathleen Gillis and senior Kathleen "Scooter" Trainor. The Lions lost seven seniors this year: Laurie Carson, Stacy Gilbert, Jody Goode, Melissa Mitchell, Chris Rysz, Kathleen Trainor, and Wendy Wilcox. However, the team will be looking for a strong season next year with players like Kathleen Gillis, Jen Erickson, Lynn Erickson, Laura Hohmann, Linda Mulkgian, and Amy Paletta.

Girls Cross Country

The Girls' Cross-Country Team of 1989 had a record of 5-3-0 and placed fourth in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

This year's team was led by captains Paula Greco and Alica Duff. Supporting these seniors was senior Renee Caron and juniors Heidi MacLeod, Kerry White and Amy Zepeda.

The Lions were tough competition for Methuen, Wilmington and Lawrence, but found Lowell, Tewksbury and Haverhill to be stiff competition. With continued determination and practice, the Girls' Cross-country team will continue to be strong competitors.

Boys Cross Country

The 1989 Cross-Country Season was a building year due to the graduation of nine key members. Losing only two meets, the team placed second in the Merrimack Valley, and also participated in the Manhattan College Invitational in New York.

Top performances were run by Steve Kelts and Chris Corrow (captains), while senior Mike zylich, juniors Josh Andresen, Jeff Fuller, and Sanjay Hedge consistently placed high in the ratings.

Part of the team's strength came from the frierdship and determination of its members. The foundation created this year will most likely prove to create a strong team for years to come.

The Lions' success is due to the superior coaching of Mr. Durkin and Mr. Christman and the dedication of the whole team. All members of the Boys Cross-country Team are winners.

Field Hockey

The 1989 field hockey team continued its tradition of victory by finishing the season with a 6-6-4 record and placing third overall in the MVC. Despite any difficulties small school powerhouse Tyngsboro posed, CHS's Lions cruised to victory. Captains Julie Nowlan, Jen Conrad, and Anne Sullivan, led the team, while leadership was also provided by seniors Alison McGinn, Julie Russell, Chris Rysz, and Sharon O'Grady. Underclassman Leslie Caito provided strength and endurance. This year's field hockey team was very close knit, both on and off the field. The team would like to thank their coaches Bob Dick and Fran Rysz as well as parents and friends that supported them throughout their successful season.

Football

The 1989 football Lions, led by senior quad-captains Michael Flanagan, Michael Lupoli, Thomas Caito, and Michael Mercuri rounded out the 80's with a near perfect 9-1 season. They rolled over the competition in the first four games before suffering a heartbreaking two point loss to Central Catholic in game 5. They then showed their true character by winning all of their last five games, prompting Coach Caito to dub this team the best he's ever coached . . .

GOLF

The C.H.S. Golf team had an excellent season, holding a 13-3-0 record and placing third in the Merrimack Valley Conference. Strong tournaments were played by senior standout Phil Smith, seniors Scott Johnson, Matt Fisher, and juniors Dave Carlson and Eric Hanson. Seniors John Edmonds and Jim Lucas gave the team the leadership needed to make the team a cohesive unit and overcome any opponent. By receiving an average score of 7, Chelmsford was a strong contender. In future years, underclassmen Greg Frederico, Denis Lundgren, and Jeff Waber will continue in the winning tradition established in the 1980's and carry C.H.S. Golf into the 1990's. The team would like to thank Coach MacLaughlin and Apple Hill Country Club. Congratulations to the Golf Team for a job well done.

Gymnastics

The 1990 gymnastics season once again proved to be exceptional; the team having placed first in the Merrimack Valley Conference. Emily Lueck once again led the team with consistent first and second place scores all around. Fellow junior Stephanie Incatasciato proved herself to be another point-getter. Dynamic seniors Jill Landry and Shea Varnum led the team and created much unifying spirit. The team has proven itself to be a strong force in the local area, and is sure to continue in years to come. Hard work and dedication has become second nature to these girls and victory in future years is certain.

Girls Soccer

The girls soccer team had a surprisingly successful season, coming out of it with a 12-5-2 record. They earned second place in the Merrimack Valley Conference, but lost in the first rounds of the State Tournament. This young team, led by co-captains Christina Contardo and Kristen Okvist, along with returning seniors Lindsay Noonan, Kathy Trainor, and Jennifer Kay; provided an near impenetrable defense and a potent offense. Although they had never played together before, by the first game, coach Carl Rondina had put together a unified and winning team.

Boys' Soccer

In the final week of the season, the Chelmsford Lions recorded shutouts over rivals Lowell, Lawrence, Central Catholic, and Andover to secure their second M.V.C. championship in as many years under the direction of Coach Scott Thomas.

Tri-captains Keith McCarthy, Charles Maffeo, and Richard Forcier helped lead the Lions to their most successful season ever, posting a 14-3-3 record. Sweeper Brett Fay and goalie Kevin Mittler were defensive standouts on a team known for its total team defense. Senior Matt Gallagher was a key contributor on a team characterized by its ball control offense.

Post season play saw the Lions advance to the quarterfinals of the state tournament before losing 1-0, to Wakefield.

Girls Swimming

The Girl's Swim Team had an extraordinary season this year. The Lions did an excellent job, remaining undefeated. Their only loss was against Lowell, which was by far the most exciting meet of the season.

The entire team has drastically improved since last year. Some factors that contributed to the success of the team were: stringent training, the dedication of coach Allen Thomas and assistant coach Pat Peterson. The outstanding leadership of senior co-captains, Kate Tobin and Pam Lonergan, led the team through a fantastic season. The Lion's managers Kristen Howe, Jen Bush, and Amy Petro-Roy led an important role during practices as well as keeping spirits high throughout the dual-meet season. Also, our outstanding divers Sue LeBlanc, Lisa Galpin, Melissa Quigley, and Emily Leuck contributed a multitude of points to the team. Finally, the overall determination and perseverance of each swimmer helped to fulfill a terrific season. It was a great year for the "Fast Women."

Girls' Track

Although the 1990 Girls' track team began the season rather slowly, it ended the season placing third in the Merrimack Valley Conference with a 3-4-0 record. Seniors leading the pack at many meets were Alicia Duff, Kristen Okvist, Mimi Rogers, Erica Frew, J.J. Carter, and Paula Greco. Next year's team promises to be just as victorious as this shine, despite the loss of these key senior athletes. Volleyball

Led by Coach Dana Howe, this year's outstanding team worked as a close unit, both on and off the court. They were strong in offense and defense. Deceiving plays such as piggybacks, double-quicks, and shoots were planned and executed with great success.

The team was led by six dynamite seniors: Laurie Carson, Patty Trudel, Meredith Swierbin, Melanie Crocker, Wendy Wilcox, and newcomer Eli Kongsrud. Each gave something special to the team, whether it was digging, blocking or spiking. Juniors Kathleen Gillis, Donna Sullivan and Jen White contributed to the success with their spirit and hustle. The team went undefeated in the Merrimack Valley Conference and were Division I North Champions.

Wrestling

The wrestling team once again proved its superiority on the mats by not only placing first in the MVC, but also in the state. Chelmsford also is proud of its two individual state champions, Jeff Bilodeau and Matt Ciesluk. The senior grapplers, Steve Ha and Joe Yi not only provided leadership, but also proved to be extremely potent in the matches. Many underclassmen also added to the Lion's victorious season; they will be sure to shine in future years. Congratulations to the 1990 State Champions, Chelmsford High School Lions!

Village Celebration

As the Builders of the Future study the successes, creations, and failures of the Builders of the Past, an escape is needed from the repetitious schedule each must endure. To find such an escape we can look to the ancients.

The Egyptians hunted a diverse culture of game and did so for multiple reasons. Some hunted as a break from the tedious daily life. Others hunted in order to attain status. And some even hunted in order to deepen their own understanding of their environment. One point of hunting remained a constant, however; whatever their reasons, all viewed hunting as a pursuit which they enjoyed.

Our present day parallel to the ancients' example would be the extracurricular activities provided by Chelmsford High School. Again a diversity of subjects exists: from academics to art and literature; from foreign exchange to the environment. This wide variety allows each student to find or create his own niche and thrive in it. As in Egypt, each student participated in these activities for reasons of his own. All do find a certain escape from the strain of academics and enjoy their role in their organization.

Calculus Team

The Calculus Team was formed in the early 80's. During that time the team has won one New England championship and placed in the top three of New England 6 times.

Student Council

One can always find chaotic activity on a typical morning in the Student Council office. This year, the student council has expanded. The board, membership and projects are some. Also, spirit in the council has never been higher. The group is enthusiastic about every new project. The Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter projects all benefit underprivileged families in the area. Spirit Week and the Mystery Match are all directed towards CHS students. This year the council has initiated projects with the elderly, pre-school kids and special education students. Finally, national and state conventions are especially rewarding for council members. One thing is for certain, these guys have fun with whatever they do.

Photography Club

Microprism, focusing screen, focal plane shutter, silver nitrate on acetate, microdol, dektol, polycontrast paper. We have fun and learn something at the same time? The Photo Club, under the direction of Alan St. Croix, met every Wednesday where we learned how to see one picture, as well as how to take it. Because of a small membership, we received individual attention in learning to compose our image and then print it. Finally, we critique our work in order to learn from mistakes and make our next masterpiece even better. Say Cheese!

S.A.D.D.

"If We Can Dream It — It Can Be Done," SADD slogan. The SADD goals are to raise the level of consciousness in teens concerning driving drunk and to eliminate from behind the wheel teenage drivers who have had too much to drink. During the year an all out effort will be made to engage the entire Chelmsford Community to accept and promote the purpose of SADD.

Peer Tutoring Club

The Peer Tutoring program consists of helpful students who volunteer their time and patience to help others in their academic struggles. The program was started in the fall of 1988 and has blossomed since then. There are now over 30 tutors who are involved in the program. The Peer Tutoring program has been very successful and in time the program hopes the flourish and meet all of its goals.

French Honor Society

The French Honor Society is an elite group of students whose members are inducted into the club in the spring of their sophomore or junior years. In order to be eligible for the society, a student must receive a consistent grade of 85 or above in an Honors level French class, or a grade of 90 or above in an A-level class. Throughout the year, the French Honor Society runs fundraisers to provide scholarship money for the students.

The LION

THE LION is the annual publication of the senior class. It represents the year's activities for seniors and for underclassmen their involvement in school life. It means hours of hard work for a few people so that a book, one of its kind, can capture memories, make you laugh, and make you cry — a book which will be enjoyed for years to come.

Bizarres

Even in the Egyptian world, centuries ago, money was not easy to come by. Instead, precious jewels and gold were often used as barter to purchase goods and services, necessities as well as luxuries. The same concept still holds true today.

The Yearbook Staff set out upon the local bizarres in search of equitable payment for advertising space. The ritual began early last summer and continued until every option was exhausted. Not only did local craftsmen contribute diamonds to the cause, but also other tribes from outside our village, even as far as Kansas City, offered rubies as well as to come to our aid. Students traveled far and worked hard to insure that there would be a sufficient horde of jewels to provide the best yearbook possible for the Class of 1990. Emeralds were donated in vast amounts by the parents of our graduates by offering their blessings to their children in the form of written salutation, and lastly, sapphires accumulated for subscriptions to The Lion as a final funding source.

The Yearbook Staff achieved its goal, the precious jewels were exchanged into gold, and payment was made for the 1990 Lion. We hope as we embark upon the New World and beyond, our years at Chelmsford High will help guide us in the paths of righteousness. Our sincere thanks to all of those who have supported our effort and contributed to our book of memories.

We especially appreciate our teachers, parents, and friends for making these last four years great, and enormous pride we will remember all of them as we become the "builders of the future."

In Loving Memory

*Raymond E. St. Onge
1946-1989*

A dedicated professional, guide, colleague, and friend for those in Special Education at Chelmsford High School and the Chelmsford School System.

Ray saw the world as a wonderful place and tried to make it better, and it is because he was a part of it. Ray's favorite song reflects his philosophy:

"I hear babies cry, I watch them grow, they'll learn much more than I'll ever know, and I think to myself what a wonderful world."

CLASS WILLS

- I, Allison L. Adamian, leave Lisa a date, Judi a clue, and Student council the best of luck in the future.
- I, Steven S. Allison, leave my strange sense of humor to anyone who thinks they can bring as many smiles to this school as I did.
- I, Mark Amerson, give my tecno skis to Mr. Marshall, And I will give the school my old sneakers.
- I, James S. Anthanasoulas, hereby leave my S.C. to K.M., my V.P. position to an unnamed junior, and G-Luck to S&N.
- I, Melissa G. Bachini, leave Tracie pepto, Sue her monthly day off, Kirsten her heavy metal, Sarah a rich husband and Mr. H all his hoochies.
- I, Keliann Barbera, leave Karen and all her friends lots of fun at Chelmsford High.
- I, Sean Barry, leave again, and this time for good!
- I, Kerry A. Baxter, leave JF, MC, and DL all this stuff to do next year.
- I, Sean James Becker, leave absolutely nothing to no one because I'm taking everything with me.
- I, Anndee Bennett, leave the good times we had to all of you who still must suffer here.
- I, Sandi N. Berkov, leave my friends tickets to the next Main Event.
- I, LeeAnn Bernard, leave nothing to noone!

- I, Meagn Childs, leave nothing to noone.
- I, Mark Christopher, leave all my bad grades behind.
- I, Stephen J. Clark, leave Mrs. Shimer and Mrs. Theroux a quiet and peaceful class.
- I, Matthew F. Cody, leave my hats to anyone who wants them.
- I, Karin E. Conrad, leave all the false rumors about Brad, PJ a CB jacket and Jody Downer a place in my will.
- I, Jennifer E. Conrad, leave my father peace because I am the last Conrad to graduate from CHS and I leave Renee my curfew and a real excuse.
- I, Jason Van Conradt, leave the IICX for Eric Hoover to use.
- I, Christina Contardo, leave Jen Gill to be E.O. with ice tea on the track.
- I, Chuck Craven, leave Mr. Kamal his holiday decorations.
- I, Jennifer C. Creegan, leave Joyce Sheehan the best of luck and the best of times in the rest of her years at CHS!!
- I, Melanie J. Crocker, didn't mean to leave Mr. Quinn & Mr. Taranto under the impression that I was a "bubblehead," really I'm not guys!
- I, Nicole Debekis, leave Jennifer MacPhail one chewed up red pen that she can keep forever.
- I, Brian P. Daley, leave Kevin all the penalties I've collected over the past four years, hoping he'll get more!
- I, Elisha G. Daley, leave Big H all his hoochies and all my luck to his next art victims — Good luck Melissa.
- I, Sarah Dator, leave to Tara all the memories of Sebago, missions, & boots!, to Steve & Jason, the SARJASTE CLUB!, to Karin — February
- I, Nathan David, leave this school with great bliss.
- I, Shelagh C. Dean, leave my alarm clock to someone else who is also notoriously late.
- I, Chris DeCilio, leave my pink guitar and bad attitude to everyone that believed they existed.
- I, Nicole A. deMoulpied, leave Ms. Miniuks alone!
- I, Tracie A. Denisevich, leave my father the bathroom in the mornings, Sarah M in the "mood" with a variety pack and all a stress-free life!
- I, Amanda DePino, leave Erin "the look," Kim the Herby Derbys and the future State Trooper all my love!
- I, Amie N. Dergay, leave one more warm breezy evening with a car and a sunroof to Martha and Ernie.
- I, Kathy Dery, leave a rubber chicken to Jim, Kathy, Aaron and Warren and Rally fries to the crew.
- I, Mychelle L. Devore, leave Leah G. 4769 (you deserve it!) — Luv ya!
- I, Brad A. Dillon, know you believe you understand what you think I said, but I'm not sure you realize what you heard was not what I mean!
- I, Katrina Dinsmore, leave the lunch table in cafe I on the immediate right to whoever can take care of it, as well as our "LITTLE FAMILY" did.

CLASS WILLS

- I, Jean-Francois Dionne, leave nothing to anybody in this school.
- I, Trish Donovan, leave Stacy Gilbert, Julie Russell and Chris Rysz all MY dilemmas!
- I, Alicia M. Duff, leave the CC Clump to KB, PK, and BC! I also leave Mr. Battle peace and quiet, and lots of luck to my brother Matt a Frosh!
- I, Christine A. Earley, leave my disgusting locker and brother to anyone who will take them.
- I, Ulrike B. Eiserman, leave Vladan a one way ticket to America, BMF a sailboat in Lawrence, and a hug and a thank you to my pais!!
- I, James V. Eshbaugh, leave all of my "Huh? What?" 's to my brother, and friends with alot of great memories.
- I, Megan Evans, would leave Chelmsford High School all the money it needs, if I had it.
- I, Tasha Faulkner, would leave Brenda, Tami, and Kim, all of those great times we've had, but I know that there will be more to come!
- I, Susanne M. Feely, leave the O.R. to its future leaders — Josh, Chris, and Eric under one condition — "Don't be . . . Icky!"
- I, Rebecca G. Fisher, leave the memory of all the good times I had, since it's getting hard to find them anymore.
- I, Michael R. Flanagan, leave my good looks and quiet personality to anyone else who wants to kid himself.
- I, Suzanne L. Foti, leave Niki Gauthier the "sacred table" and Chris Chew, Angie Borne, and Beth O'Bram memories of Ruth's summer show!

The 1990 Lion

And he calls himself an advisor!

Mrs. Donovan gave the business editors some valuable advice.

Deep in thought.

Chris's favorite part of yearbook was thinking up captions.

The photography staff has worked hard to make sure they get the best pictures.

There's always enough time for fun.

Greg's mature and responsible attitude was an inspiration.

Perfection is hard to come by, but these artists came close.

Mrs. Silva's hard work helped to make this yearbook a huge success.

Cooperation and teamwork are the key to success.

Drawing ancient Egypt is a challenge even to the most experienced artist.

Sue has become an expert on sports.

Tor takes time out from his demanding job.

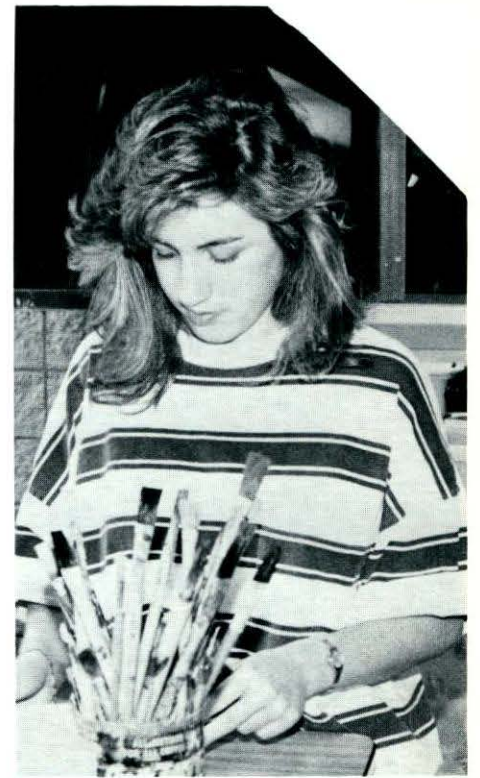

The support of Mr. Betses was appreciated.

Patti has seen more baby pictures than she can count.

Even Tor has to put up with Mr. Conrad.

The artists have gone far beyond any expectations.

Senior captions will haunt Jen forever.

The General Staff helped out whenever they could.

One can never tell who might be in the yearbook room.

Counting ballots for the superlatives was a time consuming job.

Hannah looks suspicious of Mr. Conrad, but who can blame her?

In the yearbook room, people smile because there's always a photographer around.

Say cheese!

Tension is high near an approaching deadline.

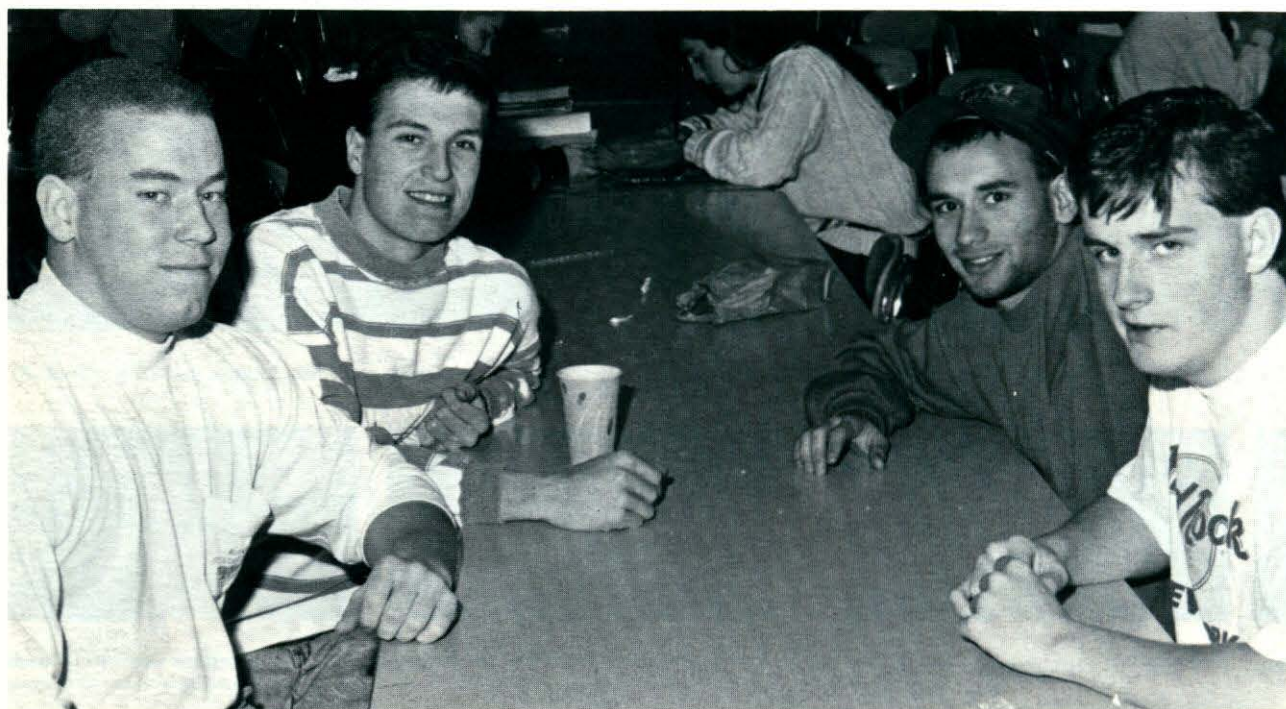

Gwenn keeps everyone smiling.

Everyone loves to see a few good pictures.

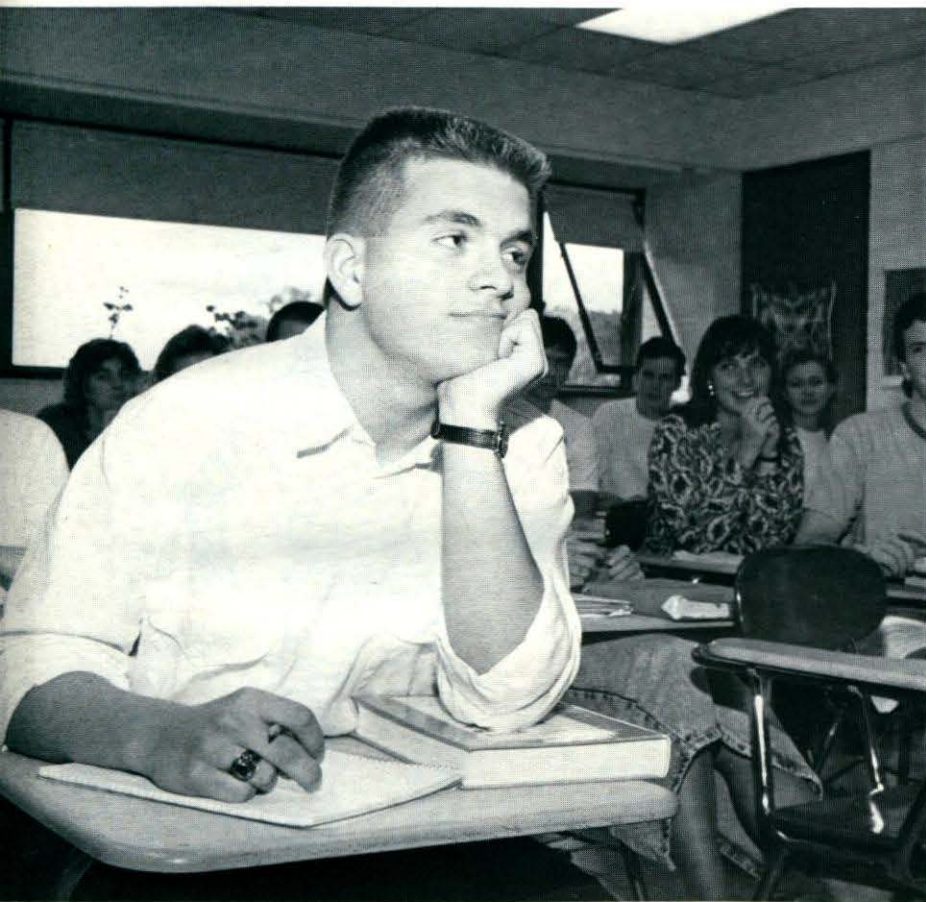

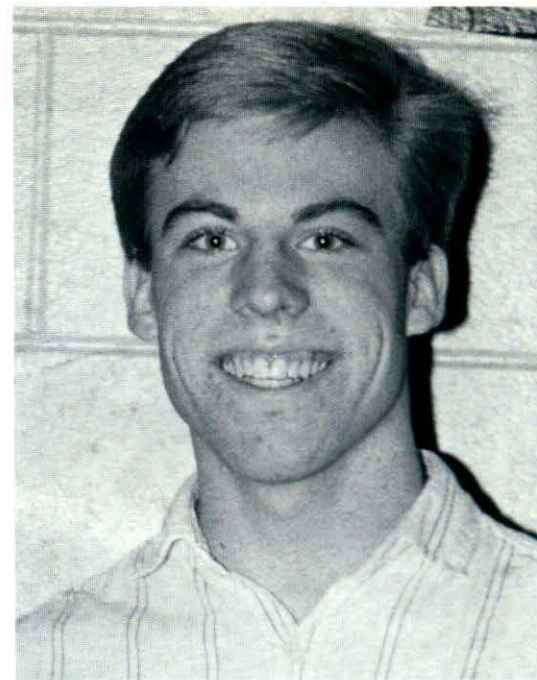

The artists create a masterpiece while Greg looks on.

Editors-in-Chief

The position of Editor-in-chief of The 1990 Lion was supposed to be selected by the advisor. Four young adults showed great interest in the position. After trials and tribulations, highs and lows, fulfillment and disappointments, it became apparent that these four people showed the desire and willingness to fill the commitment needed to bring forth to the Class of 1990 the finest yearbook that could be produced. Therefore, it is with great pleasure these fine, young adults — Amanda DePino, Gregory Gilchrist, Hannah Needle and Tor Trivers — be named Editors-in-Chief of The 1990 Lion. They have shown by their hard work, long hours, leadership, commitment and cooperation that they truly deserve this title.
