The days are long and longer still when we’re held inside against our will.
We yearn for the day that is coming slow when they’ll open the doors and we’re free to go.
But, then there’s always that price we must pay
For with the dawn of this longed-for day
Comes the end of friendships we’ve built on the way.
—Cindy Leman

Curiosity
You see it everywhere . . .

. . . at football games will we win?
does it matter?

. . . at the plays and musicals will our friends do well?

. . . in a classroom
where people ask why is it so?
. . . in the face of someone new . . .
. . . will I ever get to know you?
—Penny Arslanian

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness; it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity; it was the season of light, it was the season of Darkness; it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us . . .
—Dickens
Vermont Impressions
Sunrise—golden and musical—
Rising grey mist above sturdy pines.
Violet haze over emerald hills.
  cold sunshine.
Cool breezes and shivering birches.
  warm drizzle of rain.
Soft rustle of swaying maples.
  warmer sunshine.
Other sounds of life.
  never silence.
Sunset—
  rippled pink lace over silver rippled pond, shimmering—
Endless patterns of waves
Like the endless expanse of green hills, rolling . . .
  melting . . . into darkness.
—Lori Wadsworth

Once
I thought the world was an orange sunset and life was love
and love was you—
But I know better now.
  life is pain,
and love can die.
—Lori Wadsworth

Pale moonlight casts wavering shadows
on the garden,
  and one crimson rose stands out like fresh spilled blood against grey stone
Curiosity
I'd like to hear what you have to say—
Everybody has a mind and their own ideas—and I'm curious.
How does it feel to be you?
Why do you look that way at me?
Is it your curiosity or my imagination?
No, don't turn away—there must be something to say—at least to satisfy my own morbid curiosity.
You must feel some sort of curiosity—
Don't I interest you at all?
—John Parent

Cycle of Hope
Reaching out in all directions leaning with comfort against a rope the wind removing all it's protection leaving it with no further hope Sunlight and moonlight pass through the cold turning its color from brown to green a bleak shadow cast across the sky leaving a message yet unseen Life will leave it, or so it'll seem;
clouded by grayness, it stands unnoticed
The white crystals in daylight reflecting a gleam playing with time and disguising strength Again the roots will reach away feeding continuously off the soil once more sunlight will come its way bringing back all lost hope.
—Paul Griffin Inquest Here we are
All of us.
   waiting waiting
All of us.
You on your side
Me on mine.
Where are you going?
Where have you been?
What have you done?
What will you do?
Where do you live?
How wealthy?
How poor?
What have you got?
What will you get?
Why have you got wrinkles?
Why have you none?
What makes you smile?
Whose troubles are yours?
How much money have you got?
How much money have you got?
People oh People!
Hear the questions I ask!—
Oh, it doesn’t matter, because Here we are
All of us
   waiting waiting
All of us
You on your side
Me on mine.
   waiting.
   waiting.
—Sue Steubing

Contrast
It’s hard to walk between faces so ridden with frowns—
have smiles been outlawed here?
And just around the corner . . .
How can so much joy
be held between four walls?
It seems as if these happy folk could do their glum counterparts a great deal of good Yet, maybe tomorrow everything will be turned around.
Yesterday to today was a 180° change,
and chances are,
the world will be different tomorrow.
—John Parent

Through the Eyes of This Old
The park bench a friend for this old.
He sits in his world
so alone.
He watches the children who never age.
Like his own
so far away.
Thinking back, way back when he was young
   . . . All his friends and lovers too . . .
There’s a smile, memories still hold happiness
And, if nothing else, he has them and that’s enough.
But the world has changed, leaving him out.
Switches and buttons
he is unable to control.
Everything is bigger now, maybe better too.
Why take so much away, though,
like his house.
They’ve given him a new house with others of his kind.
His old mansion now replaced by a meaningless highway.
The world has become too smart for him
Too vast. Too loud.
Too selfish.
He has grown old only to live in loneliness.
—Bill Tyers
Let him above all adopt the attitude of a parent towards his pupils and think of himself as taking the place of those who have committed their children to his charge. He should neither be vicious himself, nor tolerate vice in others. He should be strict without being gloomy, genial without being slack; otherwise the first quality will make him disliked, the second will bring him into contempt. He should have much to say on what is good and honourable; for the more he advises, the less he will punish. He must not be prone to anger, though at the same time he should not ignore faults that need correction; he should be straightforward in his teaching, ready to take trouble, assiduous but not excessively so. He should willingly reply to questions, and should himself question those who do not ask. In praising the compositions of his pupils he should be neither grudging nor effusive; the former causes a distaste for work, the latter complacency. In correcting faults he must not be harsh and certainly not insulting; there are some teachers whose rebukes give the impression of dislike, and this has the effect of discouraging many from study ... Pupils rightly instructed regard their teacher with affection and respect. And it is scarcely possible to say how much more willingly we imitate those whom we like.

Upstairs is for thinking, downstairs is for dancing.

Mrs. Mary Donovan
Ladies, gentlemen and others.
FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Mr. Donald Boucher
Bonjour, kids!

Mrs. Joanne MacMullen
Too bad there's no "zero" mod this year, bon!

Mr. Edward Rubin
Let's have it quiet!

Miss Theresa Pelletier
In the study of a foreign language ...

Miss Michlynn Scarpitto
Don't be so crass!
Mr. Charles Adams
C'est ca.

Mrs. Isabel Chesak
Repeat your dialogue.

Mrs. Marie George
Muy bien! Buenosdías! Tibras en el suelo.

Mrs. Joyce Meyer
Debarassez vos pupitres!

Mrs. Alla Fedus
Gervías.
Mr. John T. Conrad Jr.
2b or not 2b.

Miss Jane Barbieri Plug it in.

Mr. Richard Bernier
What odds would you give me on that.

Mr. Richard Olson
Awizo.

Mr. John A. Ramalho
Education is a "privilege" and a necessity.
Miss Ellen C. Holt
Don't cross the bridge till you come to it.

Mr. Sheldon G. Blanchard
I know what your problem is, what about the one in the book?

Mr. Joseph Ford
Don't get bottled up.

Mr. Robert Conway
You follow me?

Miss Mary Ann Cottone

Mr. Robert Bradman
How in the world can you get an answer of 4 2/5 nickels?
MUSIC

Mr. Frank Page
I love you but you can't practice right now.

Mr. Robert Thurlow
What a band!

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Mr. Wesley Brinkley
All around Robin Hood's barn.

Mr. Thomas Eck
Use the other door.
Miss Joan Nartowt
Awright!

Mr. Gerald Shrock
Jiminy Christmas!

Miss Mary Chambers
... in the big gym.

Mr. Bruce Marshall
I'd like to make this pevertically clear!

Miss Sandra Heinecke
Retreat... Advance... Lunge

Mr. Randall Whitehead
Is that right?
READING

Mrs. Catherine Harper

SCIENCE

Mr. R. Daniel Bennett
Hold your horses!

Mr. Michael Tate
Put it in and turn the crank.
Mr. John Jarema
The chalk slipped.

Mrs. Kathleen Skelly
Most things people fail to do are caused by failure to start.

Mr. John Prescott
Now, here is the woofer, here is the tweeter, and down here is the antenna.

Miss Nancy Gajewski
Ladies, and I use the term loosely...

Mr. Robert Wadlegger
Ho-o-old the fort!
Mr. Richard Luce
Hi guys!

Mr. Bernard Queenan
When I went to Ohio State, of course . . .

Mrs. Caroline Kowalak
Gaw-ly!

Mr. Andrew Sorneson
 Anything new in the world of science?

Mr. Thomas Forsley
 Go tickle the blackboard, please.
Mr. John Dunigan
Who, what, when, where, how.

Mr. Edward Quinn
Let me say this about that . . .

Mr. Daniel LeClerc
That's really heavy stuff!

Miss Sophia Giavis Class . . .
Mr. Frank Turner
This is the first time I've taught in a big city school.

Mrs. Eileen K. Fletcher
You are mature young adults.

Mr. David T. Kerry
Keep your poise.

Mrs. Sarah Madison
History is what the teacher says it is.

Mrs. Dorothy Silver
I know you can do it... now come on.
Mr. William Christman
I wasn't planning on talking about that today, but...

Mr. Bernard Battle
Tow it.

Mrs. Sandra Kaktins
There's a definite lack of enthusiasm here.

Mr. John J. MacLaughlan
We'll just get you rolling on this, then close up shop early.

T.V.

Mr. Neil Weisbrod
Is this video tape?
STAFF

Mrs. Kathleen MacMillen
Mr. Dixon, please call the office!

Mrs. Mary Giavaras
Yes dear, may I help you?

Mrs. Margaret Griffin
Would you like an appointment? When are your free mods?

Mrs. Eileen Hood
Would the owner of the car with the license plate number...

Mrs. Donahue

Mrs. Maureen Perry
Well, do you want me to call your mother?
Mrs. Helen Dutton
If you want to talk, go across the hall.

Mrs. Dorothy Pisarick

The Johnsons gain a new Japanese daughter ... A night out at the Hong & Kong ... rice cakes, squid, and brownies ... trying to adjust to hot dogs and peanut butter ... dreading the coming of August '73.

Mike has a new brother for a year ... track star ... Norwegian heart-throb of the senior class ... Endless trips to other classes, other schools ...

We were so excited that you were coming this year. A girl from Japan and a boy from Norway—we wondered what you'd be like. What were your thoughts as you prepared to meet us? Adjusting to American life must have been quite an experience. We thank you for sharing yourselves with us and letting us have a glimpse into your ways of life. We hope you both have happy memories of your year in Chelmsford.

IN MEMORIAM

MY FRIEND
(Edward Tighe, Jr.)

Wherever you are
I am with you
And so I shall remain
Friends, forever true

In life in death
Children are we all
But in my eyes
You were never small

The joy you brought
Will never die
But forgive me my friend
If I should cry

For I shall feel you
Through my tears
And remember you
Through the years

And wherever you are
I am with you
I am with you
And so I shall remain
Friends, forever true

Edward Tighe

Look Inside

I hope that what you see in me will please your specific tastes. You look at me the way you size up others. So very curious. So very skeptical.

Are you worried that I could be better than you?

What do you look for in each person you see: Another friend? Someone to use?

Is it the way I dress that shades your views? Or could it be the length of my hair?

I hope you're curious enough to find out what I'm like inside. I have a heart and soul I can feel joy and sorrow.

Look inside yourself There is your real concern Find out what you are, For people also look at you.

Your specific tastes must be met: Face too dark or too light; Hair too long or too short; Clothes too flashy or too plain, Too, Too, Too . . .

There are judgements upon judgements but few friendships are made.

The Forgotten

Walking forward onto the stage and seeing a sea of faces, of eyes staring in anticipation. then . . . nothing. walking back off the stage without a word sung or a note played waking in the shame of my forgetfulness
